LITTLE HOPE SEEN

Decision of England to Default Taken Without Authority of Cabinet

(Copyright, 1934, by United Press)
LONDON, May 26.—(UP)—Great Britain has decided to accept the challenge of the Johnson law and default its $85,670,000 war debt payment due the United States June 15, a high official source close to the treasury told the United Press today.

It was regarded as certain that a British default would be followed by defaults of other nations that have been making token payments. In Brussels the United Press learned in authoritative quarters that Belgium had decided to default again.

All the debtor governments, like Great Britain, naturally hoped that there might be some miraculous change in the debt situation. But the United Press informant said that President Roosevelt, on May 17, told Ambassador Donald Lindsay that another token payment would not remove the stigma of default and that afterward it was decided that default—barring unexpected negotiations—was the only course.

Sentiment already had been against making a token payment, and it was said today that no effort would be made to promote the token idea.

Because of the Whit Monday holiday, the cabinet has not met in 10 days and has not formally made the decision to default. However, it was said, the decision was made outside the cabinet and approval is a formality. It was regarded as unlikely that a formal cabinet decision would be made before President Roosevelt sends his debt message to congress.

ROLPH'S CONDITION REPORTED IMPROVED

SAN JOSE, Calif., May 26.—(UP)—Governor James Rolph Jr. spent a restful night last night but his condition is complicated by high blood pressure and a kidney disturbance, Dr. J. M. Scanlan said today.

Scanlan, a San Jose physician, is attending the governor in conjunction with Dr. Harold Fraser of San Francisco, Rolph's personal physician. The latter is visiting the governor daily.

"The high blood pressure subjects the governor to weak spells," Scanlan explained.

"He is not gaining strength as we hoped due to complications of the heart and kidney trouble."

FRATERNITY HAZING RESULTS IN DEATH

ANDOVER, Mass., May 26.—(UP)—A fraternity hazing stunt by Phillips-Andover academy students today ended in death for John Adams Kingsbury, Jr., of Yonkers, N. Y.

Another student, Howard Pratt Johnson, 17, of Upper Montclair, N. J., was critically injured and his name placed on the danger list at Lawrence General hospital, where Kingsbury died.

His father, prominent New York physician, rushed by airplane to his son's bedside.

MUSICK MADE DEPUTY UNDER LOGAN JACKSON

Former All-American Football Star is Appointed By Sheriff Today

JAMES "JIM" MUSICK, former star football player for Santa Ana High school, the University of Southern California and the Boston Braves, professional team was appointed deputy sheriff by Sheriff Logan Jackson today as the feature of a new shift in the sheriff's office personnel, involving the resignation of two men and the appointments of three others, all to take effect on June 1.

Musick attained national prominence at U. S. C. and was regarded as the second best fullback in professional ranks. He also had been named on All-American honor teams. In announcing the appointment, Jackson said he was glad to recognize the desire of young college-trained men to take up law enforcement work, especially in the case of Musick, who gave up his football post, which was reported to be paying him $3500 per year.

To Resign
Undersheriff Art Ellis and Deputy Sheriff E. E. Perry tendered their resignations to Jackson yesterday. The sheriff made no statement except to announce his new appointments.

Fred Wilbur, who has been in charge of the civil department in the office, was promoted to undersheriff and will continue his regular duties. Wilbur is a graduate of Valparaiso university, Indiana, and was prosecuting attorney for two terms in Payette county, Idaho.

Assistant Jailer James Ragan, who has been on night duty in the jail, was shifted to the criminal division and David Fairbairn, of Olive, was appointed to work in the jail. Fairbairn for 20 years was chief yeoman's mate in the navy and is well-known in the county.

Made Constables
A late development involving Ellis and Perry was their appointment this morning as deputy constables by Constable Jess Elliott. They were sworn in just before noon. Both have been with Jackson since the sheriff took office in 1931.

Ellis, in commenting on his resignation, said he had no definite plans for the future and would take advantage of his vacation. His name has been mentioned as a possible candidate for sheriff at the approaching primary election. Perry could not be located for a statement.

The shift in personnel is the second in the past several weeks. When former Undersheriff C. W. Riggall left the office in April and was followed by Deputy Sheriff Earl Nickles, who resigned, Ellis was promoted to the undersheriff post and Merle Dean was named chief criminal deputy. Assistant Jailer Robert Steinberger and Bailiff John Ryan joined the criminal division and Tom Kinney and Ezra Stanley assumed their jobs.

TRIBUTE PAID TO CAPTAIN OF FISHING SMACK

Given Credit for Saving Millionaire's Life Off Galapagos Islands

BALBOA, C. Z., May 26.—(UP)—The navy today shared its glory with the master of a little fishing smack as the destroyer Hale sped William A. Robinson, American, to the canal zone after an emergency appendicitis operation.

Minimizing their own part in the air-and-sea expedition to aid Robinson, stricken in the Galapagos islands 970 miles from the canal, navy officers reported they had never seen "more marvelous Christian spirit" than that shown by Captain Anton Hage, master of the tuna fishing smack Santa Cruz.

Hage, his smack anchored in Tagus cove of the Galapagos, took complete charge of Robinson's treatment until two navy seaplanes reached there. He provided ice that probably saved the yachtsman's life, and diagnosed his illness, thus enabling the surgeons to take proper instruments and supplies.

Lieut. Comm. Rollo Hutchinson, the operating surgeon, Robinson's wife and navy medical men watched Robinson today as he lay in the sick bay of the Hale.

The little war-time destroyer is due here tomorrow midnight. The navy will turn its patient over to the army, for treatment at the Gorgas hospital at Ancon overlooking the Pacific.

Robinson was reported doing "remarkably well."

TRAIN RUSHING ON CHICAGO TO BREAK RECORD

New Burlington "Zephyr" Reaches Speed of Over 110 Miles An Hour

A BOARD THE ZEPHYR, EN ROUTE TO CHICAGO, May 26.—(UP)—With the throttle wide open, the Burlington's flying bullet, the Zephyr, was racing across Nebraska today with a new speed of 111 miles per hour already behind it.

The revolutionary high speed train shattered its best previous record of 109 1-2 miles per hour on a 6.4 mile stretch between Yuma and Schramm, Colo., when engineers shot the bullet nosed train up to 111 miles per hour. On the stretch between Yuma and Schramm the train averaged 109 miles per hour.

The Zephyr covered the 203.1 miles from Denver to Benkelman, Neb., with an average speed of 76.5 miles an hour despite early delays. An indication of the speed of which the Diesel-motored train is capable was given when it covered the 31.7 miles from Akron, Colo., to Benkelman in one hour and three minutes.

TRUCKERS' STRIKE IS SETTLED TODAY

MINNEAPOLIS, May 26.—(UP)—Striking truck drivers who only five days ago battled savagely in bloody riots celebrated wildly today while their employers signed a surrender to their most important demands.

Thousands of shouting, laughing men jammed the streets around union headquarters. Women joined their men in the festivity and even children danced in uncomprehending glee.

End of the 10-day strike was definitely foreseen when the drivers agreed after four hours of shouted debate to submit grievances to a seven-man board of arbitration to be appointed by the regional labor board.

The settlement bound employers to pay a minimum wage of 50 cents an hour, re-employ striking men, recognize seniority rights and adopt N.R.A. code working hours. A union demand for arbitration of any grievance must be met within five days.

STANFORD'S SEVEN-MAN TEAM WINS IC4A CHAMPIONSHIP AS WEIGHT PAIR SCORES HEAVILY

PHILADELPHIA, May 26.—(UP)—Stanford's seven man squad today won the 58th annual I. C. 4-A track and field championships, giving the far western sector a tenth consecutive triumph.

With the 15 championship events complete Stanford had a winning point total of 35. Yale was second with 25 1/2, California third with 20, and N.Y.U., fourth with 18. Harvard, rated as a possible winner, could get no more than 15 1/4 points.

Stanford's was the smallest team ever to win the title. Dink Tennison's squad succeeded. Stanford's California as the national champion, U. S. C. having won in 1930, 1931, 1932 and 1933.

Stanford, winner in 1929, when a three-year reign was completed, was made a mathematical certain winner when Sammy Klopstock won the 200 meter hurdles event in :24.2.

AGED VETERANS HOLD SERVICES MEMORIAL DAY

Mere Handful of G. A. R. Men to Take Active Part in Exercises Here

FOLLOWING a custom of many years standing, two special services under auspices of the G. A. R. will be staged on Memorial Day to pay tribute to the memory of departed comrades who fought under the Union banner in the Civil War.

Few are the members of either Orange or Santa Ana Grand Army of the Republic posts who will be able to actively participate in the Memorial Day services this year compared with past years, it is learned from post officials.

It is believed that but four of the 10 remaining members of the Santa Ana post will be able to take part in the services, and but two or three from the thinned ranks of the Orange post. However, members of the Sons and Daughters of Union Veterans of the Civil War will carry on, and be in charge of the customary memorial services.

Wednesday morning at 10 o'clock Grand Army services will be held at the tomb of the Unknown Dead in Fairhaven cemetery. Daughters of Union Veterans of the Civil War of Orange will have charge of the program, assisted by the Sons of Union Veterans of Santa Ana.

Orange Union High school will furnish the music and Mrs. P. G. Athey will read General John A. Logan's famous general order, issued after the Civil war and setting aside May 30 as the day each year to decorate the graves of their fallen comrades. General Logan was commander-in-chief of the G. A. R.

After Mrs. Della Bishop reads the Gettysburg address, the Rev. J. E. Dunning, pastor of the Orange M. E. church, will give a brief but appropriate address. The entire program, it was explained, has been planned looking to brevity because of the advanced age of the veterans who will attend. Seats will be provided for elderly persons.

A military touch to the impressive memorial services, will be given by the United Spanish War Veterans, who, in accordance with custom, will furnish the firing squad and bugler for the ceremony.

An elaborate program has been prepared to observe the holiday fittingly at Birch Park, in Santa Ana, by Sons and Daughters and

THREATS OF WAR IN EUROPE INCREASING

PHILADELPHIA, May 26.—(UP)—War clouds in Europe and Asia are growing gravely blacker over the wreck of the last disarmament conference, Alexander A. Troyanovsky, Russian ambassador to the United States, said last night.

"When I first came to your country I said that the ghost of war was hovering over Europe," he said. "Many of you thought that was an exaggeration. But I think that the present situation in the world is even darker than I at that time supposed it to be."

With tact the ambassador took note of the excitement his appearance aroused.

"I hope the temerity and audacity of our own revolution cannot seem wholly strange in this city of the American revolution," he remarked.

Informal that weather conditions for an Atlantic flight are extremely favorable, the two noted aviators said they would get away at 4 a. m. (11 p. m. Saturday New York daylight time).

JAPAN WILLING TO TALK NAVAL RESTRICTIONS

TOKYO, May 26.—(UP)—Japan will emphasize the principle of equal naval armaments, with each nation determining its own categories according to its needs, in preliminary naval discussions the Japanese may enter, it was learned today.

It was understood here that foreign Minister Koki Hirota has formulated a five-point program as Japan's basic policy for the conversations suggested by Sir John Simon, British foreign secretary.

The policy which Hirota will submit to the cabinet for its approval next Tuesday is said to contain the following provisions:
1. Discussions shall be restricted to naval matters only, with all political matters excluded.
2. Re-examination of tonnage, probably with special emphasis on the total rather than categories.
3. Re-examination of regional naval needs, with attention on Pacific, North Atlantic, South Atlantic and European waters.
4. Total abolition of whatever offensive weapons that can be dispensed with.

5. Continuance and enlargement of the non-fortified areas mentioned in the Washington treaty.
It is expected that under the fifth provision Japan would seek to include Singapore and Hawaii among the unfortified areas with Japan making certain compensatory offers in return.

Hirota has not issued any official statement but he is represented as feeling that the points mentioned should be settled before the 1935 conference is attempted. Some observers here believe that a fuller outline of the policy will

NORTHERN PART OF STATE GETS RAIN

SACRAMENTO, Cal., May 26.—(UP)—Recent rains in California have not been heavy enough to do any good and probably will set up unfavorable conditions in many crops, in the opinion of E. E. Kaufman, chief of the federal-state crop reporting service.

While no survey has been made of conditions resulting from the rain, Kaufman points out that the weather conditions were fine for development of such plant diseases as mildew on grapes in the valleys and coastal regions and various fungus growths on other crops, such as deciduous fruits.

"It is impossible to tell what the direct result may be, but such rains cannot be considered favorable at this time. Insects thrive under these conditions and the fight against them will be just that much harder."

RIOTERS ARE DRIVEN BACK BY BARRAGE

Hundreds of Bottles and Bricks Hurlled in Attempt to Rout Troopers

MEDIATORS KEPT BUSY

New Proposal Being Drafted by Conciliators After First One Rejected

TOLEDO, May 26.—(UP)—Rioting strikers began a new assault on militiamen guarding the Electric Auto-Lite plant shortly after noon today and troops were forced to lay down the most concentrated blanket of tear and knockout gas yet released.

So dense were the sickening fumes that Patrolman Henry Buckley, 45, was overcome while on duty at a nearby street intersection. The stricken policeman was taken to a hospital by fellow officers.

The terrific gas bombardment was released when strikers, sympathizers and onlookers hurled hundreds of bricks and bottles in an attempt to rout the military forces which have protected the embattled Auto-Lite plant from attacks of rioters.

Meanwhile Federal mediators met with union leaders and strove desperately to work out a truce which would end the rioting. They were spurred on by frequent rumors that a general strike might be called by union workmen sympathetic to the cause of the automobile strikers.

Conciliators met in the Commodore Hotel to draft a new proposal to be presented to United Automotive Workers union members. Present were Charles P. Taft, director of conciliation; Ralph Lind, executive secretary of the Cleveland Regional Labor board; E. H. Dunsen, Federal labor conciliator; Thomas Ramsey, business agent of the union, and other union officials.

Taft expressed confidence that "some sort of peaceful settlement" could be arranged. Thomas Ramsey said his associates were "ready and willing" to sign any truce proposal which they considered fair to the workers.

Taft promised a new proposal would be ready for consideration at a union mass meeting at 3 p. m.

LIQUOR FUNDS OF STATE PRORATED

SACRAMENTO, May 26.—(UP)—Cities, counties and the state general fund today were apportioned their share of $1,299,562, representing December 5 to April 1 collections of state liquor license fees. Sixty per cent of the fees, after expenses were deducted, were returned to cities and counties, and 40 per cent to the general fund. The apportionment was based on the number of licenses issued in each incorporated city and in unincorporated areas.

The board of equalization reported that, contrary to reports, the liquor control division spent only 11.2 per cent of collections for administration of the act. A total of $1,681,799 was collected. Expenses totaled $188,361 to April 1 and an additional $193,575 was withheld for administrative expenses to December 31, 1934.

STANFORD'S SEVEN-MAN TEAM WINS IC4A CHAMPIONSHIP AS WEIGHT PAIR SCORES HEAVILY

PHILADELPHIA, May 26.—(UP)—Stanford's seven man squad today won the 58th annual I. C. 4-A track and field championships, giving the far western sector a tenth consecutive triumph.

With the 15 championship events complete Stanford had a winning point total of 35. Yale was second with 25 1/2, California third with 20, and N.Y.U. fourth with 18. Harvard, rated as a possible winner, could get no more than 18 1/4 points.

This was the twelfth event of the program and Stanford had a total of 32 points. No rival squad had even a chance of overthrowing the Cardinals.

Roosevelt Will Issue Order Soon

Action Will Be Taken Without Waiting for Similar Move by League

(Copyright, 1934, by United Press)
WASHINGTON, May 26.—(UP)—The United States plans to act independently in an effort to halt supplies of arms for Bolivia and Paraguay without waiting for similar action by the League of Nations or other governments, it was learned in authoritative circles today.

A proclamation by President Roosevelt forbidding sales in this country of munitions to the governments fighting of the Gran Chaco territory was expected today or Monday.

Draft Prepared
The United Press learned upon reliable authority that the first draft of this proclamation has been prepared in the state department and is waiting the president's approval, or possible revision.

The president has indicated that he will follow the suggestions of the state department in application of the prohibition against munitions sales.

Machinery for preventing such sales is already in existence. It covers sales of those contraband to China and some Central American countries. It requires any person desiring to sell arms to these countries to obtain a license from the state department. A presidential proclamation prohibiting the sale here of contraband to Paraguay and Bolivia could be made effective merely by requiring purveyors of arms to obtain similar licenses before exporting to these two countries.

Legislation Passed
A resolution granting the president the authority to forbid such sales has passed congress and now awaits his signature.

The indicated early action by this country was explained in state department circles as not hasty but one in keeping with the feelings of Secretary of State Cordell Hull and his advisers. It would keep the United States well up among the leaders in the movement to stop the Chaco fighting.

Mexico has already declared an arms embargo against the two countries, and Canada intends to follow suit.

The League of Nations council has called an extraordinary meeting for May 30 to discuss the question of placing practically a world-wide embargo on arms shipments to the two South American countries.

PHILADELPHIA, May 26.—(UP)—War clouds in Europe and Asia are growing gravely blacker over the wreck of the last disarmament conference, Alexander A. Troyanovsky, Russian ambassador to the United States, said last night.

"When I first came to your country I said that the ghost of war was hovering over Europe," he said. "Many of you thought that was an exaggeration. But I think that the present situation in the world is even darker than I at that time supposed it to be."

With tact the ambassador took note of the excitement his appearance aroused.

AGED VETERANS HOLD SERVICES MEMORIAL DAY

Mere Handful of G. A. R. Men to Take Active Part in Exercises Here

FOLLOWING a custom of many years standing, two special services under auspices of the G. A. R. will be staged on Memorial Day to pay tribute to the memory of departed comrades who fought under the Union banner in the Civil war.

Few are the members of either Orange or Santa Ana Grand Army of the Republic posts who will be able to actively participate in the Memorial Day services this year compared with past years, it is learned from post officials.

It is believed that but four of the 10 remaining members of the Santa Ana post will be able to take part in the services, and but two or three from the thinned ranks of the Orange post. However, members of the Sons and Daughters of Union Veterans of the Civil war will carry on, and he in charge of the customary memorial services.

Wednesday morning at 10 o'clock Grand Army services will be held at the tomb of the Unknown Dead in Fairhaven cemetery. Daughters of Union Veterans of the Civil war of Orange will have charge of the program, assisted by the Sons of Union Veterans of Santa Ana.

Orange Union High school will furnish the music and Mrs. P. G. Atney will read General John A. Logan's famous general order, issued after the Civil war and setting aside May 30 as the day each year to decorate the graves of their fallen comrades.

After Mrs. Della Bishop reads the Gettysburg address, the Rev. J. E. Dunning, pastor of the Orange M. E. church, will give a brief but appropriate address. The entire program, it was explained, has been planned looking to brevity because of the advanced age of the veterans who will attend. Seats will be provided for elderly persons.

A military touch to the impressive memorial services, will be given by the United Spanish War Veterans, who, in accordance with custom, will furnish the firing squad and bugler for the ceremony.

An elaborate program has been prepared to observe the holiday fittingly at Birch Park, in Santa Ana, by Sons and Daughters and

THREATS OF WAR IN EUROPE INCREASING

PHILADELPHIA, May 26.—(UP)—War clouds in Europe and Asia are growing gravely blacker over the wreck of the last disarmament conference, Alexander A. Troyanovsky, Russian ambassador to the United States, said last night.

"When I first came to your country I said that the ghost of war was hovering over Europe," he said. "Many of you thought that was an exaggeration. But I think that the present situation in the world is even darker than I at that time supposed it to be."

With tact the ambassador took note of the excitement his appearance aroused.

"I hope the temerity and audacity of our own revolution cannot seem wholly strange in this city of the American revolution," he remarked.

JAPAN WILLING TO TALK NAVAL RESTRICTIONS

TOKYO, May 26.—(UP)—Japan will emphasize the principle of equal naval armaments, with each nation determining its own categories according to its needs, in any preliminary naval discussions the Japanese may enter, it was learned today.

The policy which Hirota will submit to the cabinet for its approval next Tuesday is said to contain the following provisions:

1. Discussions shall be restricted to naval matters only, with all political matters excluded.

2. Re-examination of tonnages, probably with special emphasis on the total rather than categories.

3. Re-examination of regional naval needs, with attention on Pacific, North Atlantic, South Atlantic and European waters.

4. Total abolition of whatever offensive weapons that can be dispensed with.

5. Continuance and enlargement of the non-fortified areas mentioned in the Washington treaty.

It is expected that under the fifth provision Japan would seek to include Singapore and Hawaii among the unfortified areas with Japan making certain compensatory offers in return.

Hirota has not issued any official statement but he is represented as feeling that the points mentioned should be settled before the 1935 conference is attempted. Some observers here believe that a fuller outline of the policy will

SACRAMENTO, Cal., May 26.—(UP)—Recent rains in California have not been heavy enough to do any good and probably will set up unfavorable conditions in many crops, in the opinion of E. E. Kaufman, chief of the federal-state crop reporting service.

While no survey has been made of conditions resulting from the rain, Kaufman points out that the weather conditions were fine for development of such plant diseases as mildew on grapes in the valleys and coastal regions and various fungus growths on other crops, such as deciduous fruits. "It is impossible to tell what the direct result may be, but such rains cannot be considered favorable at this time. Insects thrive under these conditions and the fight against them will be just that much harder."

RIOTERS ARE DRIVEN BACK BY BARRAGE

Hundreds of Bottles and Bricks Hurling in Attempt to Rout Troopers

MEDIATORS KEPT BUSY

New Proposal Being Drafted by Conciliators After First One Rejected

TOLEDO, May 26.—(UP)—Rioting strikers began a new assault on militiamen guarding the Electric Auto-Lite plant shortly after noon today and troops were forced to lay down the most concentrated blanket of tear and knockout gas yet released.

So dense were the sickening fumes that Patrolman Henry Buckley, 45, was overcome while on duty at a nearby street intersection. The strikers' policeman was taken to a hospital by fellow officers.

The terrific gas bombardment was released when strikers, sympathizers and onlookers hurled hundreds of bricks and bottles in an attempt to rout the military forces which have protected the embattled Auto-Lite plant from attacks of rioters.

Meanwhile Federal mediators met with union leaders and strove desperately to work out a truce which would end the rioting. They were spurred on by frequent rumors that a general strike might be called by union workmen sympathetic to the cause of the automotive strikers.

Conciliators met in the Commodore Hotel to draft a new proposal to be presented to United Automotive Workers union members. Present were Charles P. Taft, director of conciliation; Ralph Lind, executive secretary of the Cleveland Regional Labor Board; E. H. Dunnigan, Federal labor conciliator; Thomas Ramsey, business agent of the union; and other union officials. "Taft expressed confidence that 'some sort of peaceful settlement' could be arranged. Thomas Ramsey said his associates were 'ready and willing' to sign any truce proposal which they considered fair to the workers."

Taft promised a new proposal would be ready for consideration at a union mass meeting at 3 p. m.

LIQUOR FUNDS OF STATE PRORATED

SACRAMENTO, May 26.—(UP)—Cities, counties and the state general fund today were apportioned their share of $1,299,362, representing December 5 to April 1 collections of state liquor license fees.

Sixty per cent of the fees, after expenses were deducted, were returned to cities and counties, and 40 per cent to the general fund. The apportionment was based on the number of licenses issued in each incorporated city and in unincorporated areas.

The board of equalization reported that, contrary to reports, the liquor control division spent only 11.2 per cent of collections for administration of the act. A total of $1,631,739 was collected. Expenses totaled $188,351 to April 1 and an additional $193,571 was withheld for administrative expenses to December 31, 1934.

The Santa Ana High School Girls' Sextette will sing and the band will play several other numbers.

Russell Haney, a great-grandson of a Civil War Veteran, will read Lincoln's Gettysburg address. Then one of the most impressive ceremonies of the day will be presented as W. J. Leiser, quartermaster of Sedgwick post, reads the roll of departed comrades as Daughters of Union Veterans perform their beautiful cross ceremony. The ceremony will be concluded with the sounding of taps by Glen H. Cave and U. S. Holderman.

The speaker of the day will be District Attorney S. B. Kaufman. The program will conclude with singing of "America" by the audience, accompanied by the band, and the benediction by the Rev. Mr. Kelly.

Out of a former membership of more than 800, the local G. A. R. post now has but 10 members, many of them inactive now.

CHARGES BRIBERY IN PRISON BREAK

SAN RAFAEL, May 26.—(UP)—Sensational testimony regarding the alleged payment of a $12,000 bribe to Folsom prison guards to assist two prisoners to escape was promised today for the resumption of the trial of four San Quentin prisoners here.

Before the trial recessed until Monday, William Southwell, defense attorney, told of the alleged bribe, paid "by a Vancouver woman" to obtain freedom for Elhan A. McNabb, San Francisco "yacht bandit" and Lloyd Sampell, another convict.

McNabb is one of the defendants in the trial in which the four convicts are accused of using violence in an attempted escape. The state claims that since the four are serving life terms they are liable to death sentences if convicted.

WILL ROGERS says:

BEVERLY HILLS, May 26. (To the Editor of The Register:—) If you haven't bought a poppy this morning as you read this, go right now and do so; the soldier boys in the hospitals make 'em and it's for a great charity. The further we get in years away from the war, the less we think of it. But that's not these fellows' fault, they never thought so much of it even at the time.

A mother can come nearer saying the right, and most impressive, thing under any circumstance than all your great writers. The mother of the outlaw Parker girl, killed in Louisiana, said, "She won't be buried with him," he took her from me in life, but I will take her from him in death, she is mine from now on."

Yours,

WILL ROGERS.

LOLA LANE ELOPES TO LAS VEGAS, NEV.

HOLLYWOOD, May 26.—(UP)—Lola Lane, former wife of Lew Ayres, stole a march on her friends today by eloping to Las Vegas, Nev., with Alexander Hall, film director, and returning before the colony stirred itself from sleep.

No camera ground out a faster romance on the screen. Hall said he proposed late last night. Miss Lane accepted him. They chartered a plane, flew to the Nevada town, aroused a justice of the peace from bed, were married, and arrived back home before breakfast. They were unattended.

RAIN CLOUDS IN BRIEF STOP HERE

A freak shower came to Santa Ana this morning, the precipitation amounting to only enough to dampen the sidewalks and streets of the business section and in parts of the residential section.

The light shower lasted but for a few moments, and during the first part of the rainfall, the sun was shining. The shower also was reported in Orange.

Ripley Loses $6 To Fortune Teller

"Believe it or not" said Ripley "but I lost $6 in having my fortune told."

That was the substance of the tale that William F. Ripley, 400 West Delhi road, told police yesterday afternoon. He said that two Gypsy women had stopped at his house and asked to tell his fortune. During the procedure, they took his purse and handed it back with the $6 missing.

Ripley chased the women in his car nearly to Costa Mesa, before returning for police aid. He was advised to forget the $6 and be more careful on future occasions.

Completing half of her non-stop run as she rolled through Ashland, Neb., at 12:31 p. m., the Flying Zephyr had averaged 79.7 miles per hour from Denver, smashing the non-stop record of Britain's famous Royal Scot.

Record Broken
On the 401.5 miles from Denver to Harvard, Neb., the train averaged 79.1 miles per hour.

The crack English train's best record was an average of 56 miles an hour on the 324.5 mile run from London to Edinburgh.

As the new train hurried mountain railways and streaked across Nebraska, swinging curves, hitting the open road with wide open throttle. Burlington officials were confident they could roll her into Chicago—1,615 miles from Denver—in less than 13 hours, with a possible average above 80 miles per hour.

Along the straightaway stretches between Harvard and Chicago, the Zephyr will attempt to better the greatest speed ever attained by an American train on short runs. That record, 115.2 miles per hour for three miles, was established by the Philadelphia and Reading road, has stood for 30 years.

A German train holds the world's high speed record for a brief stretch—143 miles an hour—but it was not made with standard equipment.

The Zephyr got off to an unimpressive start at Denver. To the delay of an hour and six minutes in the station for mechanical repairs was added a break in an air condenser wire.

The engine crew throttled her down to less than 50 miles an hour as she coasted down a grade for 20 miles while the crew made repairs.

A few miles out of Akron, Colo., a member of the crew out his thumb in repairing the condenser wire. But with the new bearing working well, the engineer threw open the throttle again and the Zephyr shot full speed eastward.

Construction of a subway between Keneasaw and Hastings, Neb., pulled down her speed over a 14.4 mile stretch to 65.5 miles an hour, the only time she fell below 70.

Dashing outward of Harvard, the train began holding to speeds exceeding 80 miles an hour and as she raced out of Dorchester, the speed indicators approached 85.

S. A. MEN NAMED IN DAMAGE COMPLAINT

Randall, of Santa Ana, are named defendants in a suit for $23,935 damages, just filed in superior court by Los Angeles county residents, Charles Winchell, Lorene Winchell and Howard Curtis, as the result of an automobile crash at Foothill boulevard and Mountain avenue, San Bernardino county, April 15.

Randall was driver of the car registered to Pinkerton, which collided with Winchell's car, according to the suit on file. Winchell asks $1400 for injuries and demolition of his car; Lorene Winchell sued for $10,000 for injuries and $575 for medical expenses; Curtis asked $10,000 for injuries and $1960 for medical expenses.

TANNENBAUM WINS THIRD IN CONTEST

Tannenbaum spoke on "Hitler and the Jews."

High Speed Causes Automobile Crash

PAIR GIVEN JAIL TERMS FOR PERJURY

Sentences of four months in the county jail, as a condition of 10 years' probation, were dealt out to J. E. McKillips and Mrs. Elsie F. Kately, both of Long Beach, who recently pleaded guilty to perjury. Sentence was passed yesterday by Judge James L. Allen.

The couple had testified falsely to an alibi at the trial of McKillips on a charge of failure to render aid after an automobile accident. McKillips now is serving a three months' jail sentence for that offense, as a condition of probation. His sentence will run concurrently.

THEATER FIRE SHOWS VALUE OF PRECAUTIONS

Demonstrating the complete safety measures provided in a modern theater, a fire in the projection booth of the Broadway theater was extinguished last night while the audience was unaware of the fact.

The fire started in a projection machine just as the first part of the feature film was completed. The fire-proof booth was instantly sealed and the fire extinguished, after which the picture was resumed. There had been no break in the sound amplifiers and few persons realized anything had happened. Manager Les Fountain telephoned to Los Angeles for a replacement on the 2000 feet of film that was burned and used his scheduled preview picture to fill up the gap until the film could be rushed to Santa Ana.

Firemen were at the theater within three minutes of the alarm but were not needed. Fire Chief John Luxemburger who was attending the theater at the time made a statement today, in which he lauded Fountain and his staff for the efficient and supervised safety measures taken. He said that with the fire prevention facilities in the theater and such a trained personnel, the element of danger was minimized.

The only loss, outside of the burned film, was the scorching of walls within the booth.

Patrons were asked to move to the lobby of the theater as a precautionary measure, but as the show continued, but few left.

Carlos Silva, 60, Orange, was booked at noon for drunkenness by Deputy Sheriff Fred Swayze of the farm detail.

Ray O'Tero, 21, Tustin, was booked at the jail at 1:40 o'clock last night by D.puty Sheriff Harold Burrier of Irvine park for drunkenness and resisting an officer.

other affiliated patriotic organizations. The program will begin at 2 p. m. and Commander J. H. Brown of Sedwick post, G. A. R. will be in charge.

The Orange County band, directed by Ted Collins, will open the program, and after the first selection, will play the "Star Spangled Banner," which the audience will join in singing. The pledge of allegiance to the flag will follow, after which the Rev. Albert Eakin Kelly, pastor of the Santa Ana United Presbyterian church, will give the invocation. The Santa Ana High School Girls' Sextette will sing and the band will play several other numbers.

Russell Haney, a great-grandson of a Civil War Veteran, will read Lincoln's Gettysburg address. Then one of the most impressive ceremonies of the day will be presented as W. J. Leiser, quartermaster of Sedwick post, reads the roll of departed comrades as Daughters of Union veterans perform their beautiful cross ceremony. The ceremony will be concluded with the sounding of taps by Glen H. Cave and U. S. Holderman.

The speaker of the day will be District Attorney S. B. Kaufman. The program will conclude with singing of "America" by the audience, accompanied by the band, and the benediction by the Rev. Mr. Kelly.

Out of a former membership of more than 600, the local G. A. R. post now has but 10 members, many of them inactive now.

CHARGES BRIBERY IN PRISON BREAK

SAN RAFAEL, May 26.—(UP)—Sensational testimony regarding the alleged payment of a $12,000 bribe to prison guards to escape was promised today for the resumption of the trial of four San Quentin prisoners here.

Before the trial recessed until Monday, William Southwell, defense attorney, told of the alleged bribe, paid "by a Vancouver woman" to obtain freedom for Eban A. McNabb, San Francisco "yacht hand" and Lloyd Sampson, another convict.

McNabb is one of the defendants in the trial in which the four convicts are accused of using violence in an attempted escape. The state claims that since the four are serving life terms they are liable to death sentences if convicted.

WILL ROGERS SAYS:

BEVERLY HILLS, May 26. (To the Editor of The Register:) If you haven't bought a poppy this morning as you read this, go right now and do so; the soldier boys in the hospitals make 'em and it's for a great charity. The further we get in years away from the war, the less we think of it. But that's not these fellows' fault, they never thought so much of it even at the time.

A mother can come nearer saying the right, and most impressive, thing under any circumstance than all your great writers. The mother of the outlaw Parker girl, killed in Louisiana, said, "She won't be buried with him, I'll take her from him in death, she is mine from now on."

Yours,

WILL ROGERS.

LOLA LANE ELOPES TO LAS VEGAS, NEV.

HOLLYWOOD, May 26.—(UP)—Lola Lane, former wife of Lew Ayres, stole a march on her friends today by eloping to Las Vegas, Nev., with Alexander Hall, film director, and returning before the colony stirred itself from sleep.

No camera ground out a faster romance on the screen. Hall said he proposed late last night. Miss Lane accepted him. They chartered a plane, flew to the Nevada town, aroused a justice of the peace from bed, were married, and arrived back home before breakfast. They were unattended.

Ripley Loses $6 To Fortune Teller

"Believe it or not" said Ripley, "but I lost $6 in having my fortune told."

That was the substance of the tale that William F. Ripley, 400 West Delhi road, told police yesterday afternoon. He said that two Gypsy women had stopped at his house and asked to tell his fortune. During the procedure, they took his purse and handed it back with the $6 missing.

Ripley chased the women in his car nearly to Costa Mesa, before returning for police aid. He was advised to forget the $6 and be more careful on future occasions.

Along the straightaway stretches between Harvard and Chicago, the Zephyr will attempt to better the greatest speed ever attained by an American train on short runs. That record, 115.2 miles per hour for three miles, was established by the Philadelphia and Reading road, has stood for 30 years.

A German train holds the world's high speed record for a brief stretch—143 miles an hour—but it was not made with standard equipment.

The Zephyr got off to an unimpressive start at Denver. To the delay of an hour and six minutes in the station for mechanical repairs was added a break in an air condenser wire. The engine crew throttled her down to less than 50 miles an hour as she coasted down a grade for 20 miles while the crew made repairs.

A few miles out of Akron, Colo., a member of the crew out his thumb in repairing the condenser wire. But with the new bearing working well, the engineer threw open the throttle again and the Zephyr shot full speed eastward.

Construction of a subway between Keneaw and Hastings, Neb., pulled down her speed over a 14.4 mile stretch to 66.5 miles an hour, the only time she fell below 70.

Dashing outward of Harvard, the train began holding to speeds exceeding 80 miles an hour and as she raced out of Dorchester, the speed indicators approached 95.

TRAIN RUSHING THEATER FIRE ON CHICAGO TO SHOWS VALUE BREAK RECORD OF PRECAUTIONS

Completing half of her non-stop run as she rolled through Ashland, Neb., at 12.31 p. m., the Flying Zephyr had averaged 73.7 miles per hour from Denver, smashing the non-stop record of Britain's famous Royal Scot.

Record Broken

On the 401.5 miles from Denver to Harvard, Neb., the train averaged 77.1 miles per hour.

The crack English train's best record was an average of 56 miles an hour on the 392.6 mile run from London to Edinburgh.

As the new train hurried mountain railways and streaked across Nebraska, swinging curves, hitting the open road with wide open throttle, Burlington officials were confident they could roll her into Chicago—1,015 miles from Denver—in less than 13 hours, with a possible average above 80 miles per hour.

CARRIERS SEEK FARMER GROUP TOP POSITIONS IN REQUEST FOR IN PRIZE RACE VALUE SURVEY

With the end of the Register carrier free prize contest slated for next Thursday, efforts of the carriers centered on toppling the leaders and earning a place among the first ten in each division.

Dale Heinley, Santa Ana carrier 22, with 45,000 points, and Laverne Rees, Orange 2, with 76,000 points, are leading the race but will be seriously challenged by several of the boys in the higher ranks. James Watters, Santa Ana 7, is only 4000 points behind Heinley and R. M. Caples, Orange 8, is the boy most capable of overhauling Rees in the suburban division.

No standings will be printed after today so that carriers will be discouraged from holding out subscriptions and attempting to win in the last few hours of the contest. The complete tabulations are carried elsewhere in the paper today.

Free prizes will be given to the first 10 in each division in addition to the regular cash commissions for subscriptions. All carriers receive the cash payments for points earned, according to Circulation Manager R. M. Conkling.

The first 10 boys in the city division today are Dale Heinley, 22, 45,000; James Watters, 7, 44,000; Duane Teel, 43, 35,500; Wendell Tredrow, 41, 32,000; M. A petition has been filed in superior court by F. L. Mrs. Goldie M. Vickers, of Orange, has filed suit against William Vickers for divorce, charging cruelty. Enthusiastically endorsing the movement launched several weeks ago by The Register and others for a re-appraisal of Orange county lands by the Federal Land Bank, the Orange county chapter, Farmers Union, meeting at the Orange Intermediate school, adopted a resolution last night urging such a revaluation. The resolution, similar to others recently passed by several local organizations, also urges that the setting of land values for Federal Farm Loan purposes be made by those qualified and well versed in local citrus valuations.

Copies of the resolution will be sent to each of California's Senators at Washington. It was also voted that a letter be sent to Congressman Sam Collins thanking him for his support of the Frazier-Lemke bill, a plan for re-financing farms at one and one-half per cent interest.

Provisions of this measure, also of the Cost of Production and Profit bill, commonly known as the Swank-Thomas bill, were explained to the group present by George C. Randall, secretary of the Orange county chapter, of which A. H. Jamieson of Santa Ana is president.

Randall pointed out that the local chapter is affiliated with the National Farmers Union and invites the co-operation of all farmers, whether members of the Union or not. He invited all farmers, who are interested in their own welfare, to attend the next meeting scheduled for Friday evening, June 8, at 8 p. m. in the auditorium of the Orange Intermediate school.

More than five thousand "Renovizing Dollars" were placed in circulation in Santa Ana today, and started on their way through local trade channels to bring increased employment and business activity.

To each dollar bill is attached a printed slip, pointing out that it is a Renovizing dollar, spent by a man put to work as a result of the Renovizing Santa Ana Campaign, and urging the recipient to write down the various commodities or services purchased by the dollars as they pass from hand to hand.

When completely filled in, or by next Saturday night, June 2, the slips are to be detached and returned to Renovize headquarters for checking.

The idea behind the plan originated by J. W. Estes, general manager of the Renovize campaign, is to demonstrate the value of dollars spent for Renovize improvements so that many thousands of inactive dollars will be put into active, business-building and prosperity-promoting service to the owner and to the community at large.

The plan was enthusiastically received, and the Renovizing dollars were today in city-wide circulation, helping to bring increased employment, increased trade activity, and more happiness in many Santa Ana homes.

HAL FORREST, NEWS WRITER, ANSWERS CALL

Hundreds of friends throughout Southern California today mourned Hal Forrest, 56, widely known newspaperman, who passed away at his home in Laguna Beach last night of angina pectoris.

Funeral services will be held at the Laguna Beach funeral chapel Monday morning at 10 a. m., with the Rev. Raymond I. Brahams, pastor of the Community Presbyterian church, officiating. Cremation will follow.

Forrest, who had been under a doctor's care since last January, suffered a sudden heart attack shortly before 6 o'clock and passed away before the arrival of a physician.

Forrest came to Laguna Beach 10 years ago as editor of the Laguna Beach Life. Following its sale to the South Coast News, he established the Laguna Beach Times, which was merged with the News later. He had been the correspondent of The Register for many years.

The newspaperman came to Laguna from Long Beach, where he had been employed on the Daily Telegram for a number of years. He came with his family from Chicago. Forrest, a native of Washington, D. C., started his newspaper career in New York, where he was employed by the New York Sun and in the office of the Associated Press. He met and married Marion Munson while both were employed on the Philadelphia North American.

Mr. and Mrs. Forrest spent many years on the stage and traveled to all parts of the world with their various acts. Mrs. Forrest became widely known as a light-ning change artist and Forrest as a stage actor.

Forrest was one of the organizers of the Laguna Beach Rotary club and was its secretary at the time of his death. He was a veteran of the Spanish-American war. He was well informed on the subject of astronomy and was engaged in writing a book on this subject.

BOARD TO AID IN PURCHASE OF RIGHT OF WAY

LoRoy Lyon, supervisor of Third District, last night reported at Imperial Highway association that the board of supervisors is ready to pay the Pacific Electric $6000 for part of their right-of-way from Valencia avenue to Yorba Linda, if the state highway department will arrange to purchase an additional 24 feet from ranchers.

This report, made at the Imperial Highway Association meeting at Hotel Kenny, in Corona, was of particular interest to members of the Imperial Highway association since the work on the straight El Segundo-Imperial Highway has been hindered by the lack of right-of-way for the highway through Yorba Linda.

Prior to the Imperial Highway meeting, members of the Corona Improvement club held a dedication meeting at the site of the old stage station in Temescal, six miles south of Corona, where two Orange county men were honored. Mrs. Jeannette William Gould, chairman of the club, reported on this early meeting at the Imperial Highway association meeting, commenting favorably on route chosen for Imperial Highway, as a route that will be along the old historic trail, the Butterfield Stage route.

The two men, Judge J. E. Pleasants, who was a passenger on the Butterfield stage coach route in 1859, and H. W. Pankey, who occupied the Corona stage coach station as a resident a little later, were the honored guests at the dedication ceremony, unveiling a bronze monument, at the crumbling ruins at Temescal. Dr. Owen C. Coy, who is director of the State Historical society, and a professor of the University of Southern California, was principal speaker at both meetings. Postmaster Terry Stephenson, Santa Ana, author and authority on California history, introduced the two pioneers and talked at the Temescal meeting.

GRACE HANEY WINS SPEAKING CONTEST

Discussing the subject, "Why Is Kidnaping So Prevalent in the United States?" Grace Haney, of St. Joseph's school, was given first award in a speaking contest participated in by St. Joseph's and Julia Lathrop's public speaking classes held yesterday afternoon at Lathrop school. Gloria Kirchner of Lathrop was second.

The talented young speaker, who won first place in a group of eight contestants, pointed out in her talk that kidnaping is prevalent in this nation because of lust for power and greed for money in the minds of men.

She pointed out that the remedy for the situation is in elimination of technical means of delaying justice and the discouragement of the unethical and so-called "shyster lawyer."

Other subjects were treated separately by the contestants, who were Helen Warner, Maxine Knight, Gloria Kirchner and Betty Park for the Julia Lathrop school, and Caroline Borchard, Jane Hill and Cecilia Tellig for St. Joseph's.

Unusual excellence made the awards by the judges, H. G. Nelson, principal and Iva Weber and Nora Reid of the Lathrop school, difficult, it was said.

They separated March 19, 1934. Mrs. Reta charged that her husband became intoxicated and was abusive in his attitude toward her.

A petition has been filed in superior court by F. L. Luce, of Anaheim, to probate the will of Ellen Robinson, of La Habra, who died May 20 at Covina, leaving an estate valued at $1700 to her husband, George H. Robinson, 77. The will provides that at his death the estate shall go to six brothers and sisters, except for a $500 bequest to the Watch Tower Bible and Tract company.

Kate W. Owens, of Santa Ana, today had petitioned superior court to probate the will of her father, Robert A. Wallace, who died February 23, leaving Los Angeles property valued at $1000. The will names as sole devisee his wife, Harriet F. Wallace, who, however, had died in 1932, thus leaving the daughter as only legal heir.

R. O. Rustad was plaintiff today in two suits to quiet title to Orange county property one involving 15 lots, in which B. A. Casad and Fanny Casad were named defendants; the other being filed against James G. Patterson and involving 10 lots.

Ray Archer, 25, Laguna Beach cafe employee who was sentenced in superior court yesterday to two terms at San Quentin for forgery, subsequently was granted a stay of execution pending decision in a criminal case pending against him in San Diego county. He was sentenced here to terms of from one to 14 years on each of the two counts.

Mrs. Goldie M. Vickers, of Orange, has filed suit against William Vickers for divorce charging cruelty. Mrs. Vickers alleges that her husband told her he was tired and disgusted with living with her; and that he recently advertised in a newspaper that he would not be responsible for her debts. They married June 8, 1931, and separated February 11, this year.

The Orange Savings Bank today had a suit on file in superior court against Elizabeth Michelson, executrix of the Mary T. Armstrong estate, to foreclose a $4000 mortgage against property at Laguna Cliffs.

Mrs. Bernetta Jane Kirkham, of Anaheim, filing suit in superior court yesterday for a divorce from Robert S. Kirkham, declared that her husband once told her, in the presence of friends at an Anaheim dance, that she had married him for a meal ticket. They were wed-

Renovizing Dollars In Circulation

More than five thousand "Renovizing Dollars" were placed in circulation in Santa Ana today, and started on their way through local trade channels to bring increased employment and business activity.

To each dollar bill is attached a printed slip pointing out that it is a Renovizing dollar, spent by a man put to work as a result of the Renovize Santa Ana Campaign, and urging the recipient to write down the various commodities or services purchased by the dollars as they pass from hand to hand.

When completely filled in, or by next Saturday night, June 2, the slips are to be detached and returned to Renovize headquarters for checking.

The idea behind the plan originated by J. W. Estes, general manager of the Renovize campaign is to demonstrate the value of dollars spent for Renovize improvements so that many thousands more of inactive dollars will be put into active, business-building and prosperity-promoting service to the owner and to the community at large.

The plan was enthusiastically received, and the Renovizing dollars were today in city-wide circulation, helping to bring increased employment, increased trade activity, and more happiness in many Santa Ana homes.

Edith J. Bohanan, Former Teacher, Dies Suddenly

Funeral services for Mrs. Edith J. Bohanan, 76, former principal and teacher in Santa Ana schools who died suddenly in her home at Fallbrook, California, Thursday night, will be held Monday at 2 p. m. from the Fallbrook Methodist church.

Mrs. Bohanan had been a teacher and principal in Santa Ana schools for about 15 years. She had served as principal of both Logan and Roosevelt schools for several years and as a teacher in Lincoln school. She had come to Santa Ana with her daughter, Mrs. Donald Shipley, and after their return she walked over to the daughter's home, where she complained of feeling badly and suddenly collapsed and expired. When in Santa Ana she lived with Mrs. George Wright, 831 North Minter street.

She is survived also by another daughter, Mrs. D. W. Hanley, of Winner, South Dakota, who is on the way to California, and a son, John M. Bohanan, of Beverly Hills.

Trojan Club To Use Radio KREG On Monday Night

Attorney L. W. Blodgett of Santa Ana, former city attorney of Huntington Beach, has been secured to act as toastmaster for the banquet of the Orange County Trojan Men's club to be held in James cafe Monday at 6:30 p. m.

Together with the announcement concerning Blodgett, President Wayne Harrison revealed that the main portion of the speeches and entertainment will be broadcast over Radio KREG from 7:45 to 8:45 p. m. This will include the talk of Coach Dean Cronwell, track mentor at U. S. C. Coach Sonny Collins, basketball leader, Debate Coach Alan Nichols and a musical program being arranged by Halstead McCormac of Santa Ana.

Norman Paul of Santa Ana, hurdler at U. S. C., will be the guest of honor.

This is the final meeting of the school year for the club and will feature an election of officers. An attendance committee includes Judge H. G. Ames of Santa Ana; Dr. H. A. Johnson of Anaheim; Gordon C. Richmond of Orange; and Albert Launer of Fullerton.

BOARD TO AID IN PURCHASE OF RIGHT OF WAY

LeRoy Lyon, supervisor of Third District, last night reported to Imperial Highway association that the board of supervisors is ready to pay the Pacific Electric $6000 for part of their right-of-way from Valencia avenue to Yorba Linda.

If the state highway department will arrange to purchase an additional 24 feet from ranchers, the Highway Association meeting at Hotel Kenny, in Corona, was of particular interest to members of the Imperial Highway association since the work on the straight El Segundo-Imperial Highway has been hindered by the lack of right-of-way for the highway through Yorba Linda.

Prior to the Imperial Highway meeting, members of the Corona Improvement club held a dedication meeting at the site of the old stage station in Temescal, six miles south of Corona, where two Orange county men were honored. Mrs. Jeannette William Gould, chairman of the club, reported on this early meeting at the Imperial Highway association meeting, commenting favorably on route chosen for Imperial Highway, as a route that will be along the old historic trail, the Butterfield Stage route.

The two men, Judge J. E. Pleasants, who was a passenger on the Butterfield stage coach route in 1859, and H. W. Pankey, who occupied the Corona stage coach station as a resident a little later, were the honored guests at the dedication ceremony, unveiling a bronze monument, at the crumbling ruins at Temescal. Dr. Owen C. Coy, who is director of the State Historical society, and a professor of the University of Southern California, was principal speaker at both meetings. Postmaster Terry Stephenson, Santa Ana, author and authority on California history, introduced the two pioneers and talked at the Temescal meeting.

GRACE HANEY WINS SPEAKING CONTEST

Discussing the subject, "Why Is Kidnaping So Prevalent in the United States?" Grace Haney, of St. Joseph's school was given first award in a speaking contest participated in by St. Joseph's and Julia Lathrop's public speaking classes held yesterday afternoon at Lathrop school.

The talented young speaker, who won first place in a group of eight contestants, pointed out in her talk that kidnaping is prevalent in this nation because of lust for power and greed for money in the minds of men.

She pointed out that the remedy for the situation is in elimination of technical means of delaying justice and the discouragement of the unethical and so-called "shyster lawyer."

Other subjects were treated separately by the contestants, who were Helen Warner, Maxine Knight, Gloria Kiehnner and Betty Park for the Julia Lathrop school and Caroline Borchard, Jane Hill and Cecilia Teilig for St. Joseph's.

Unusual excellence made the awards by the judges, H. G. Nelson, principal and Iva Weber and Nora Reid of the Lathrop school, difficult, it was said.

Forrest was one of the organizers of the Laguna Beach Rotary club and was its secretary at the time of his death. He was a veteran of the Spanish-American war. He was well informed on the subject of astronomy and was engaged in writing a book on this subject.

Survivors are the widow and a daughter, Halmar, 17. Honorary pallbearers will be Frank Cuprien, Eliot West, Dr. V. P. Carroll, Frank Haverer, Major James W. Hanberry, Thomas A. Cummings, Ajax Wolf, James K. Hutchings, Stephen Chalmers, Charles F. Riesner, Abe Johnson, M. B. McMillan, K. P. Frederick, Thomas Hosmer, Lieut.-Comm. Augustus Baldwin and Brayton Norton.

Declaring that the movement to issue a special stamp honoring Father Junipero Serra, founder of California's missions, was originated by the California Historical Society and the Native Daughters of California, and not by the Orange County Historical society, Matilda Lemon, secretary of the local Native Daughters, said today she wanted to correct a statement in The Register Thursday, regarding the stamp.

192 PLAYERS IN PASADENA DRAMA

With 192 players on the stage, 36 of whom have speaking parts, "Cavalcade" will open at the Pasadena Playhouse next Wednesday. "Cavalcade" will be the greatest undertaking in 17 years of Playhouse history. Every device known to the ingenuity of supervising director Glimor Brown will be called into service in "stretching" the walls of the extensive Playhouse stage to accommodate the huge ensemble of Noel Coward's spectacular historical drama.

Although this huge production ran a full year to packed audiences in London, the Playhouse will be the first in America to bring the living characters of "Cavalcade" to American eyes.

Ralph Freud and Doris Lloyd will enact the principal characters in the huge cast. "Cavalcade" will open Wednesday evening instead of the customary Tuesday because of the need of an extra day for rehearsals.

The same deficiencies which destroy teeth also destroy the soft parts of the body and the various parts of the circulatory system."

Calcium, Phosphorous and Vitamin 'D'

should be renewed in your body daily—not only to prevent tooth decay, but to promote strong bones, active brains, steady nerves, resistance to cold and disease, and to insure sound sleep at night. THE ALBERTY COMPANY, pioneers for 25 years in the development of high calcium concentrate foods, have developed a delicious new Calcium-Phosphorous drink that is rich in these minerals—that is, rich in Vitamin "D"—and that is balanced with the proper Proteins. WASHINGTON

BUSINESS

The current warm weather business recession is slightly more than seasonal. The May decline will be about one or two points beyond the normal decline from April to May back in 1933 to 1935. That is more than had been expected, but not enough to worry about.

It is caused by several things. One is overstocking. For instance, textile production has been producing so much that the silk mills shut down by agreement for a whole week in May.

Another reason is sales resistance to some price increases. That factor is particularly noticeable in automobiles and building. After the automobile price increase, production was curtailed and so was the market. The sharp advance in building prices had a similar effect. Also tobacco manufacturers have been making more cigarettes than people were smoking, and have been stacking a few machines.

ANALYSIS

None of these factors is particularly dangerous. They are all obviously temporary and self-adjusting.

In automobiles, manufacturers already are putting out models with fewer gadgets on them. These sell for about the same as the low-priced models before the price increase. Such shrewd tactics are bringing back the automobile market. When the small overstocking of silks and cigarettes is absorbed, production will again have to be measured to demand in those lines.

There is one other factor, which may not cure itself. That is the apparently dissipated mental attitude of a number of business men who are talking behind their hands. They probably are encouraged toward doubts by the trend in the stock market.

The adjournment of congress will make them feel a lot better.

STATUS

The condition of affairs can be analyzed from the following monthly chart. It is seasonally adjusted on the basis of 1923 to 25 averages, each figure representing the percentage of normal at the time stated. (There is one exception. The basis of the wholesale price index is 1926.)

EMPLOYMENT AND WAGES

One reason the employment and wages figures show so well is that Miss Perkins has worked out a new basis for her figures.

The effect has been to increase them about 6 per cent beyond those formerly carried in this chart.

Impartial economists concede that the employment and payroll figures of the last two or three months may be more accurate scientifically, but they afford a poor comparison with previous months, which were figured on a different basis.

Whatever was done, it does not alter the fact that there are about 5,000,000 persons out of work today and about 4,000,000 have been restored to work in the past year. These are the best possible impartial estimates.

IMPERFECTION

The figure on factory employment in the chart this month is a trustworthy private estimate. The government has not officially computed a seasonally adjusted figure on employment for the first time since it stated such computations many years ago. The reason is not evident. Investigation discloses that some of the economists are dissatisfied with seasonal adjustments because their accuracy is vaguely imperfect. They are changing the official governmental table accordingly.

BUILDING

The only really disappointing factor in the business situation is building.

This industry was showing some signs of life until the price increases under the code came along and kept it from getting the improvement it deserved.

Construction contracts awarded in April amounted to $131,000,000, of which $55,000,000 was public works construction. May will be about the same. March was much larger, with a total of $175,000,000, of which $72,000,000 was public works.

The public works figures do not include publicly financed projects, but only direct public building.

STATISTICS

Certain government economists tell this story of themselves. They say one of their group was riding across Montana on a train recently when he got into conversation with a sheep rancher.

The economist started estimating the number of sheep in herds they passed. The rancher was astounded at the accuracy of the estimates. When they passed a herd owned by the rancher, the exact number was rattled off by the economist. The rancher demanded to know how the economist did it.

"It's simple," said the economist. "I count their legs and divide by four."

BRAWL
The Kilkenny brand between NRA and Clarence Darrow's board wasn't as pleasing to local New Deal opponents as you might think. There were two reasons.

First, the criticism points the wrong way. If carried to its logical conclusion it would deprive large industry of the honey that makes the codes palatable—virtual suspension of the anti-trust laws—and leave it with the vineyard of higher minimum wages and shorter hours.

SHIP 155 CARS FRUIT DURING COMING WEEK

ORANGE, May 26.—One hundred and fifty-five cars of Valencia oranges will be shipped to the domestic market during the coming week by packing houses affiliated with the Orange County Fruit exchange, under pro-rate figures for the new week just received, according to Clarence E. Skiles, manager of the exchange.

Next week's shipments are 15 cars above the week closing today, when the pro-rate allowed shipment by the Orange county exchange of 137 cars.

Total California shipments next week will be 1200 cars under the current pro-rate, 300 from the central part of the state and 900 cars from Southern California. This is an increase for the south of 150 cars over the past week.

Prices on the fruit are holding up well, and growers of this district continue to feel encouraged over prospects for a successful season, while thousands of workers are happy that several months' steady work is at hand.

HOLD FUNERAL OF CLARENCE ROZELL

ORANGE, May 26.—Funeral services for Clarence E. Rozell, 57, who passed away at his home, 418 North Batavia street, Wednesday morning following a heart attack, were held Friday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock in the Gilligly funeral home.

Dr. James Edwin Dunning, pastor of the Methodist church, where Mr. Rozell held membership, officiated. Mrs. George Harper and Mrs. R. C. Patton, accompanied at the organ by Mrs. Neleta Wolfe who played before and after the service, sang "Sometime We'll Understand" and "Beautiful Isle."

Palbearers were Tom Green, James Green, H. Z. Sawyer, W. E. Girtin, Henry Gallon and C. E. Pine.

Mr. Rozell is survived by his wife, Mrs. Nettie Rozell, and father, Wilbur W. Rozell. Interment was made in Fairhaven cemetery.

Olympic Club In Picnic At Park

ORANGE, May 26.—An interesting afternoon was shared Friday by members of the Olympic club when they met at the Anaheim park for a picnic luncheon. One new member, Mrs. Mary Lydick, was welcomed into the organization. Special guests of the afternoon were Mrs. Laura Minton and Mrs. A. C. Tulene.

Present were Mrs. C. H. Adams, Mrs. H. Pennington, Mrs. A. C. Tulene, Mrs. Mabel Lee, Mrs. Mary Lydick, Mrs. Ollie Kurtz, Mrs. W. C. Pritchard and Mrs. Burt Hodson.

Western living standards on Japanese pay.

The main issue focuses on renewed efforts by the militarists to unseat the moderates—who want to digest Manchukuo before seeking new worlds to conquer. The militarists are irked by the delay—largely because they fear it strengthens parliamentary government. To them politics is a filthy business to be abolished as thoroughly as possible. They crave a Japanese version of Fascism with the Mikado as silent dictator drawing power from Army and Navy.

Japanese politics have been characterized by the growth of "splinter parties." Anybody with a brain could start one.

BANKS
Our recent item about banks being forbidden to trade in stocks for customer's account was written when Federal Reserve authorities seriously favored such a ban for member banks.

The Federal Reserve has reversed itself since. National banks are still uncertain of their status as the Comptroller of the Currency hasn't made an official decision but they expect to be freed of the restriction. Otherwise they would be handicapped as against State banks—which doesn't fit with government plans for unification.

SCOUTS
Correspondents of the big New York banks don't always have to ask for advice—much as a "keep liquid" admonition recently noted in this column. A system of scouts operating from here helps to keep the country cousins supplied with "enlightened" opinion.

New York influences on national credit policy could hardly be called exposed.

NAIVE
Lunch banking circles get a chuckle out of the solution to the debt problem advanced by a German source—that creditor nations float loans to pay off German bondholders among their nationals with a Reich guarantee of eventual payment as security.

The idea is understood to be Hjalmar Schacht's. Wall Street inquires what more could he ask than to have Germany's creditors pay off Germany's debts for her.

Y ANNIVERSARY DINNER DRAWS LARGE CROWD

The tenth anniversary of the dedication of the Santa Ana Y. M. C. A. building to service in this community and the nineteenth anniversary of the founding of the association by George Williams in London in 1844, was the occasion of a dinner and celebration in the association building Thursday night that attracted a highly representative group of community leaders.

Col. S. H. Finley, first president of the association, was the toastmaster at the dinner and many of the leaders in the campaign to finance and build the fine structure which houses the association, were present and were introduced to the host by Y. M. C. A. friends and supporters who were present for the occasion.

The entire personnel of the building committee, S. H. Finley, Harry W. Lewis, Charles H. Chapman, Harry A. Lake and L. A. West, was there, as were J. P. Baumgartner, Finley, Lewis, Lake, West, Chapman, Eugene Griest and E. B. Sprague, members of the first board of directors. Other members of that first board who were unable to be present were W. D. Baker, Alex. A. Brownridge, F. C. Blauert, J. Cruikshank, J. C. Cranston, C. A. Miller and W. B. Sprague. Reminiscences of the evening recalling the campaign and building of the structure were voiced by L. A. West, John A. Henderson, Joe Peterson, John Henderson Jr., J. P. Baumgartner, F. H. Eley, architect, and Ralph Smedley, present secretary.

Smedley named the various presidents who have served the association as follows: S. H. Finley, 1922-1925; O. H. Barr, 1925-1929; J. P. Burke, 1929-1933; T. J. Hunter, 1933. He also recalled leaders in the financial campaign which raised $225,000 from June 1 to 8, 1932, for the building which was dedicated on April 27, 1934, as follows:

Orange Packers—Alex. Brownridge and R. R. Miller; Nut Crackers—F. C. Rowland and W. H. Spurgeon Jr.; Bean Cleaners—L. A. West and W. C. Jerome; Lemon Squeezers—Mrs. W. M. Semon and Mrs. H. W. Lewis.

HITCH-HIKERS IN LIFE DRAW DENUNCIATION

Scoring "hitch-hikers" as those seeking undeserved benefits and showing an unwillingness to "pay the price," Dr. Willard O. Trueblood, pastor of the First Friends church at Whittier, addressed the Santa Ana Lions club Thursday at James' cafe.

There is a delicate "something" in each person, called honor, integrity, manhood, or other terms, which is thrown out of balance to the permanent injury of the individual when they are enabled to avoid paying the price, he said.

The speaker also accused "political hitch-hikers" who do not vote or take part in the government; social hitch-hikers not willing to avoid paying the price, he said, and refinement, and church hitch-hikers who do not support the church but who would not live in a community without churches, the greatest asset a community can have.

Hitch hikers, the speaker declared, are "cottons on the back of progress."

Bob Hockaday was program chairman for the day and introduced Mrs. Grace Hanson Buell of 228 1-2 North Broadway, a recent arrival in Santa Ana, who entertained with two violin solos. Mrs. Buell has appeared as guest soloist with the Chicago Symphony Orchestra and charmed her audience with her numbers. She was accompanied at the piano by Mrs. Hilda Johnston.

President Carson Smith announced the ladies' night installation party for new officers to be held the evening of June 7 at the Laguna Beach Hotel. Judge Trickey is scheduled as the speaker, and Neil Larson has promised to bring her entertainers from KHF for the evening, it was announced.

THIEVES JACK UP CAR; STEAL WHEELS

Ingenious thieves who dropped through a trap door in a garage ceiling and then stole the tires and wheels from a car were being sought by sheriff's officers today following a burglary report made by O. L. Baldwin, living at Macy and Russell street, La Habra.

Baldwin's car was stripped Thursday, he said, after the thieves climbed into the garage loft, found a trapdoor in the ceiling, and lowered themselves to the car roof and then to the ground. The car was jacked up while the wheels were removed.

Gloves discarded in the garage indicated that the men were careful not to leave fingerprints. At about the same hour the garage of A. Otis, living next door to Baldwin, was burglarized but sheriff's officers are merely assisting Los Angeles officers on the case, since the Otis ranch is just over the county line.

Y ANNIVERSARY DINNER DRAWS LARGE CROWD

The tenth anniversary of the dedication of the Santa Ana Y. M. C. A. building to service in this community and the nineteenth anniversary of the founding of the association by George Williams in London in 1844, was the occasion of a dinner and celebration in the association building Thursday night that attracted a highly representative group of community leaders.

Col. S. H. Finley, first president of the association, was the toastmaster at the dinner, and many of the leaders in the campaign to finance and build the structure which houses the association, were present and were introduced to the host of Y. M. C. A. friends and supporters who were present for the occasion.

The entire personnel of the building committee, S. H. Finley, Harry W. Lewis, Charles H. Chapman, Harry A. Lake and L. A. West, were there, as were J. F. Baumgartner, Finley, Lewis, Lake, West, Chapman, Eugene Griest and E. B. Sprague, members of the first board of directors. Other members of that first board who were unable to be present were W. D. Baker, Alex Brownridge, F. C. Blauer, A. J. Cruikshank, J. A. Cranston, C. A. Miller and W. E. Sprague. Reminiscences of the evening recalling the efforts of those who aided in the campaign and building of the structure were voiced by L. A. West, John A. Henderson, Joe Peterson, John Henderson Jr., J. P. Baumgartner, F. H. Eley, architect, and Ralph Smedley, present secretary.

Smedley named the various presidents who have served the association since 1924: S. H. Finley, 1924-1925; O. H. Barr, 1925-1926; J. F. Burke, 1926-1927; T. J. Hunter, 1927. He also recalled leaders in the financial campaign which raised $225,000 from June 1 to 8, 1927, for the building which was dedicated on April 27, 1924, as follows:

Orange Packers—Alex Brownridge and R. W. Miller; Nut Crackers—F. C. Rowland and W. H. Spurgeon Jr.; Bean Cleaners—L. A. West and W. C. Jerome; Lemon Squeezers—Mrs. W. M. Smart and Mrs. H. W. Lewis.

Schrock, pastor of the First Congregational church. Other ministers who took part in the program were the Rev. E. A. HITCH-HIKERS DENUNCIATION

Scoring "hitch-hikers" as those seeking undeserved benefits and showing an unwillingness to "pay the price," Dr. Willard O. Trueblood, pastor of the First Friends church at Whittier, addressed the Santa Ana Lions club Thursday at James cafe.

There is a delicate "something" in each person, called honor, integrity, manhood, or other terms, which is thrown out of balance to the permanent injury of the individual when they are enabled to get something for nothing and avoid paying the price, he said.

The speaker also scored "political hitch-hikers" who do not vote or take part in the government, social hitch-hikers not willing to pay the price in culture, grace, and refinement, and church hitch-hikers who do not support the church but who would not live in a community without churches, the greatest asset a community can have.

Hitch hikers, the speaker declared, are "footloose on the back of progress."

Bob Hockaday was program chairman for the day and introduced Mrs. Grace Hanson Buell of 828 1-2 North Broadway, a recent arrival in Santa Ana, who entertained with two violin solos. Mrs. Buell has appeared as guest soloist with the Chicago Symphony Orchestra and charmed her audience with her numbers. She was accompanied at the piano by Mrs. Hilda Johnston.

President Carson Smith announced the ladies' night installation party for new officers to be held the evening of June 7 at the Laguna Beach Hotel. Judge Trickey is scheduled as the speaker, and Neil Larson has promised to bring her entertainers from KHJ for the evening, it was announced.

THIEVES JACK UP CAR; STEAL WHEELS

Ingenious thieves who dropped through a trap door in a garage ceiling and then stole the tires and wheels from a car were being sought by sheriff's officers today, following a burglary report made by O. L. Baldwin, living at Macy and Russell street, La Habra.

Baldwin's car was stripped Thursday, he said, after the thieves climbed into the garage loft, found a trapdoor in the ceiling, and lowered themselves to the car roof and then to the ground. The car was jacked up while the wheels were removed. Gloves discarded in the garage indicated that the men were careful not to leave fingerprints.

At about the same hour, the garage of A. Otis, living next door to Baldwin, was burglarized by assisting Los Angeles officers on the case, since the Otis ranch is just over the county line.

RUTH READY TO QUIT

It would not surprise any member of a panicky Yankee party if Babe Ruth chuckled at any day now. The most precious pair of dogs in the history of baseball is barking right out loud. Ruth is rich, can earn plenty of money in other ways, and is not expected to make any attempt to finish the season as a regular.

Meanwhile, the idea that it was going to be a walkaway has been knocked out of the noggin of the New York Americans. The pitching sickness of last year has turned out to be a permanent ailment.

Vernon Gomez and the red-headed Charley Ruffing are the only dependable dealers on Col. Jacob Ruppert's payroll at the moment. Joe McCarthy, in starting the thinly thatched veteran, George Uhle, in Cleveland the other day, gave the tipoff. After two games, Johnny Allen pulled up in Detroit with a bad arm.

When Danny McFayden beat the A's twice in April, it appeared that he finally was to come through. But the bespectacled bowler, for whom the brewer paid the Red Sox $100,000 in 1932, is on the market, as the result of being belted out of there, for the fourth consecutive time, in Cleveland.

Russell Van Atta, who stood out as a freshman in 1933, has lost everything but his motions. He also has had to be rescued in his last four starts. And to add to the Jersey southpaw's misery, he was spiked by "Mickey" Cochrane in Detroit.

PAGING BURLEIGH GRIMES

Johnny Murphy evidently contracted a seven-inning gait working nightcaps for the Newark farm team. Jimmy DeShong has yet to establish himself, and McCarthy is commencing to question the sight of the forager who recommended Harry Smythe, a 30-year-old left-hander from Baltimore.

Indeed, the New York slinging is in such sorry shape that one of the writers traveling with the troupe suggested that McCarthy sign old Burleigh Grimes, with whom the spitball made its exit from the majors.

S-o-o-o, the Yanks must make a trade. With an eye on the cantankerous Wesley Ferrell and George Willis Hudlin, McCarthy dispatched an emissary to Billy Evans, general manager of the Indians.

Ferrell can't help Cleveland, which is top-heavy with mound talent, and churn in the North Carolina Textile league at the same. Hudlin seems to have worn out his welcome in Cuyahoga county and Walter Johnson appears none too enthusiastic in regard to the Oklahomaan.

Alva Bradley's outfit would consider giving up Ferrell in a deal that would bring an outfielder, a third baseman, or a catcher of worth, and it is highly probable that it would yield Hudlin's contract in the same kind of transaction.

RELIEF FOR RICKETY RUTH

The Tribe's crying needs are the flycatcher and the third baseman. Dick Porter lags as a big league retriever and Sam Rice has reached the end of the pike at 41. The latter's release is expected daily.

Willi Kamm's tendon ailment is likely to force him off third base at any time.

But with the acrobatic Lyndon Lary sold to the Red Sox, the Yankees have no spare infielder to bandy. And, paradoxical as it might appear, McCarthy hesitates about letting an outfielder go, despite the fact that he has two complete sets.

The Cleveland club unquestionably would consider Sam Byrd, head man of the second string, or Myril Hoag, who four years ago represented an investment of $65,000.

But "Dike" Walker, of whom much was expected, now has a dead arm, and indications are that he will be able to do nothing more than bat and run this term.

And playing the biggest outfield in history is commencing to tell on the 32-year-old Earl Combs. The colonel patrols a good piece of Ruth's terrain and Ben Chapman exchanges places with the Great Man with the shifting of the sun.

Ruth must be kept in the shade as much as possible. And if every body in baseball had his way, the big fellow could sit out there under a bench umbrella.

COLOMBO NEW BRITISH IDOL

He's Three-Year-Old Colt, Rated Finest Since 1903

HAS MULE EARS, BAD TEMPER

By HENRY McLEMORE
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

PRESTWICK, Scotland, May 26.—His name is Colombo, and he's a magnificent bay, thoroughbred with a snow-white triangular star on his forehead. Seven times as a two-year-old and twice as a three-year-old, he has gone to the post, and nine times he has carried Lord Glanville's red, white and blue silks to victory.

Today Colombo is the toast of England. Such is the interest and affection that Colombo has inspired, that his name and achievements are the paramount topic of interest wherever you go. On the street, in the pubs, in the hot spots of Mayfair, on the buses—everywhere—it's Colombo this and Colombo that, and how will Colombo fare in the Derby?

The papers are filled with Colombo's deeds, and when reports were circulated that he was savage and mean of temper, the sate Manchester Guardian devoted a column of its editorial page to his defense, suggesting that there should be a law of libel for the protection of traduced racehorses.

Undoubtedly the greatest racehorse England has seen since the war, Colombo already has been made an 11-5 favorite for the Derby, and you can get on five to one that Lord Glanville's horse won't gain the triple crown—the Two Thousand Guineas, the Derby, and the St. Leger. When you remember that, excepting the war years when the fields were poor, the last triple crown winner was Rock Sand in 1903, you realize the esteem in which Colombo is held.

Already he has won the Two Thousand Guineas, making a show of the field for his ninth consecutive win.

I saw him win this race, and afterwards went to the paddock for a close-up. Colombo is of medium height, and in addition to the star on his forehead, has one white "sock" on his near foreleg. He was born at Newmarket and has spent most of his life there. His sire, Manna, won the Derby and the Guineas in 1926. As a goal he sold for 510 guineas. He couldn't be bought now for 50,000 pounds. (One guinea, by the way, is 21 shillings, and the shilling is worth a few cents more than two bits).

Success, they say, has made Colombo a bit high-hat. Before the Guineas he kicked wickedly when his admirers pressed too close, and after the race refused to enter an ordinary stall, forcing his handlers to saddle him in the open.

His ears, according to his trainer, Captain T. Hogg, grieve Colombo deeply. They are long and loping, almost like a mule's. He is very sensitive of these ungainly features, and resents having them fondled, even by the bride.

The press refers to Colombo as the "most eligible bachelor now in training," for, as The Star explained recently, "he will command a fee of 400 pounds per mare when he retires from racing and takes up the duties of fatherhood."

STARS LOSE AT TORRANCE IN 13 INNINGS, 8 TO 5

Santa Ana's faltering Stars found themselves just removed from the National Night league cellar today, after losing to Torrance in 13 innings, 8-5, one of the most sensational baseball games waged in the confederacy this year or any other season last night.

The 1933 Southern California titleholders proved themselves courageous champions by coming from behind in the last of the ninth to tie the score at five-all, and then won out the hard-hitting Santa Anans in four extra chapters.

McClure's safe bunt, Hal Forney's double and Dan Leonard's long fly to "Chub" Sears in right field—with McClure scoring easily after the catch—broke up the thrilling battle. Louie Neva, Torrance's best hitter, fanned during the heat of this rally, but Torrance's Forney turned into joy.

Forney and Leonard, who followed Neva, came through in the pinch.

Tough Game to Lose

Santa Ana has lost a score of tough games in the past two years, many by a single run, but none more discouraging than this one. Fighting desperately to get into the pennant race, the Stars combed Neva for 23 basehits during the 13 innings and apparently earned a winning run of their own in the first of the thirteenth only to have it taken away from them by a costly decision at first base.

With two out and the bases full, Pitcher Jim Coates bounced high into the infield, beating Leonard's throw to first by two strides, but Empire Darwin Scott, called Coates out. Play was resumed after plenty of beefing, and the interlude did Coates no good for he became ineffective for the first time since he stepped into the joust as a relief pitcher during the ninth.

Wilbur Stinchfield started for the Stars and was driven out in two innings. Torrance got two in the first on Moon's single, Louie Neva's single and Leonard's long triple to center. Metha's single, a passed ball, a wild pitch and Moon's fly to Preble in short right gave the champions another in the second.

DeBusk Muls Well

Ira DeBusk replaced Stinchfield in the third, and hurled magnificently until he lost control in the ninth. He did not give up a run in that time while Santa Ana pecked away at Neva until it overcame Torrance's edge and secured a 5-3 lead of its own.

The Stars scored twice in the third, DeBusk starting it with a bunt. DeBusk singled and Ed Ballard sacrificed. Ed Daley's single to right scored DeBusk and Denney. Sears followed with a double which sent Daley to third, and Conrad walked, but Young forced Sears at third for the final out.

Daley opened the fifth with a single and Preble sacrificed. Sears struck out but Conrad singled to right and Tommy Young tripled.

DeBusk's single, a wild pitch, a passed ball and Ballard's advantage gave the Stars their 5-3 advantage in the sixth which was wiped out in the ninth. DeBusk Moon, McClure beat out a bunt. The Stars' board of strategy ordered Louie Neva passed intentionally, and the maneuver looked good when Forney popped out to Preble. But Leonard singled on a line to center, scoring both Moon and McClure with the tying run. Manager Bill Cole then called on Coates and the kid retired the side by fanning Paul Neva.

Errington got one man out. Then he lost control, passing "Lefty" Thrasher and Francis Lemon in succession. Billy Norton beat out an infield hit, loading the bases. A wild pitch let Thrasher score from third and Jim McComb's infield single brought home Lemon with the tying run.

"Fuzzy" was the victim of three infield hits when he lost in the tenth. Comstock beat out a hit to short. Higgins sacrificed. Moody struck out but Coggan and Thrasher beat out infield taps and the last one broke up the ball game.

Westminster got its first run off "String" McDonnell in the seventh when Webb dropped a Texas league double into right and, with two away, scored on Daley's single. The Aviators picked up another in the eighth when Sauer, Montgomery and Webb singled in succession after two were out.

Westminster Anaheim

over Paul Neva in deep center, scoring Daley and Conrad. Young's blow wash a cinch homer but it fell into soft dirt and bounced straight up into the air, Neva retrieving it in time to hold Young at third. Koral fouled out, leaving Young stranded.

Leonard's Hit Ties Score

DeBue's single with out-

"Hen" Thiery's home run down the left field foul line, with two aboard, gave Huntington Beach a 4-1 victory over Fullerton at Fullerton.

The league-leaders went into a 1-0 lead in the fourth on Zaby's single, Schuchardt's sacrifice and Rodger's timely single. Sabella was safe when Miller dropped his pop fly in the fifth, and McKinley was safe on another error. Then Thiery homered, scoring both runners ahead of him.

Fullerton made its run in the eighth on Widener's double. Morrill's single and Bell's fielder's choice.

Professional football will get along next year without one of its greatest backs, Jim Musick, of the Boston Braves, who today was appointed an Orange county deputy sheriff in the criminal division by Sheriff Logan Jackson. He assumes his duties June 1.

Musick, No. 2 fullback of the National Professional league last season, said he would retire from football which, it is understood, paid him $3500 in 1933. His salary as deputy sheriff will be $148.75 monthly.

Onetime (1926-27) star at Santa Ana high school, Musick for three years was first string fullback at the University of Southern California before he went into pro football. He is 24.

BRITAIN, LIKE U. S. PAMPERS SPORTS HEROES

BY HENRY McLEMORE
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

PRESTWICK, Scotland, May 26.—The next time you hear an article in which America's pampering of amateur sports stars is condemned and Great Britain is praised for the sensible and highly ethical manner in which it handles the amateur problem, do not hesitate to sound a loud laugh.

For you may take it from me that, regardless of how well prowess in sports pays in the United States, the dividends are not one bit more elegant than in Britain. British amateurs have a reputation for extreme holiness, but it's a trifle exaggerated.

Take the international cricket players, for example. Australia has a team of 16 here now to contest for the hallowed "ashes." The members of the team, all amateurs in good standing, left home in March. They will not return until October. In addition to having every cent of their expenses paid, each player was handed, on leaving Australia, a "spending money" check for 650 pounds, which, in our money, is around $3300.

That's pretty fair "spending money." But that's not all. At the end of the tour, those players whose conduct has been in keeping with the gentlemen's code will receive a bonus of around $1000. Those players who have broken training on the trip will receive a smaller bonus, as it is in the power of the team captain to fine offenders.

When an English team goes to Australia, the members receive the same liberal allowance. This is quite a contrast to the financial backing given our Walker Cup team. The cup players were placed in the smallest cabins on the boat and were allowed but $250 with which to pay all their living expenses at St. Andrews and Prestwick, a fact which forced several into such vices as poker and blackjack.

English tennis players roam around just as much as ours, too. And, like ours, they travel at the various clubs' expense. And, unlike in America, the British athletic ace goes in heavy for journalistic work. Diana Fishwick, for example, is the chief golf writer of a London morning paper, and there is the chance that her victory in the Open championship a few years back, and the fact that she still is a ranking player, helped her to get the job.

Santa Anita tomorrow encounters here the highly touted Follies in what figures to be one of the closest baseball games of the Inter-City league schedule. The two clubs are tied for first place with five victories and two defeats. Game-time is 2:15.

Santa Anita's lineup: J. Koral; c; Friend, lf; Maldonado, rf; B. Koral; c; Farley, 2b; Villa, cf; Munoz, 3b; Alcantar, 1b; Shepherd, p; Miller, p; Farlas, p; Fredricks and Selma, utility.

Stanford had 13 points after the first two events.

Ferrell can't help Cleveland, which is top-heavy with mound talent, and churn in the North Carolina Textile league at the same. Hudlin seems to have worn out his welcome in Cuyahoga county, and Walter Johnson appears none too enthusiastic in regard to the Oklahoma.

Alva Bradley's outfit would consider giving up Ferrell in a deal that would bring an outfielder, a third baseman, or a catcher of worth, and it is highly probable that it would yield Hudlin's contract in the same kind of transaction.

RELIEF FOR RICKETY RUTH

The Tribes crying needs are the fychaser and the third baseman. Dick Porter lags as a big league retriever and Sam Rice has reached the end of the pike at 41. The latter's release is expected daily.

Will Kamm's tendon ailment is likely to force him off third base at any time.

But with the acrobatic Lynford Lary sold to the Red Sox, the Yankees have no spare infielder to bandy. And, paradoxical as it might appear, McCarthy hesitates about letting an outfielder go, despite the fact that he has two complete sets.

The Cleveland club unquestionably would consider Sam Byrd, head man of the second string, or Myril Hoag, who four years ago represented an investment of $65,000.

But "Dixie" Walker, of whom much was expected, now has a dead arm, and indications are that he will be able to do nothing more than bat and run this term.

And playing the biggest outfield in history is commencing to tell on the 32-year-old Earl Combs. The colonel patrols a good piece of Ruth's terrain and Ben Chapman exchanges places with the Great Man with the shifting of the sun.

Ruth must be kept in the shade as much as possible. And if everybody in baseball had his way, the big fellow could sit out there under a bench umbrella.

STARS LOSE AT TORRANCE IN 13 INNINGS, 6 TO 5

Santa Ana's faltering Stars found themselves just removed from the National Night league cellar today, after losing to Torrance in 13 innings, 6-5, one of the most sensational baseball games waged in the confederacy this or any other season last night.

The 1933 Southern California titleholders proved themselves courageous champions by coming from behind in the last of the ninth to tie the score at five-all, and then nose out the hard-hitting Santa Anans in four extra chapters.

McClure's safe bunt, Hal Forney's double and Dan Leonard's long fly to "Chub" Sears in right field—with McClure scoring easily after the catch—broke up the brilliant battle. Louie Neva, Torrance's best hitter, fanned during the heat of this rally, but Torrance's despair turned into joy when Forney and Leonard, who followed Neva, came through in the pinch.

Tough Game to Lose Santa Ana's lost a score of tough games in the past two years, many by a single run, but none more discouraging than this one. Fighting desperately to get into the pennant race, the Stars combed Neva for 23 basehits during the 13 innings and apparently earned a winning run of their own in the first of the thirteenth.

With two out and the bases full, Pitcher Jim Coates bounced high into the infield, beating Leonard's throw to first by two strides, but Umpire Darwin Scott called Coates out. Play was resumed after plenty of beefing, and the interlude did Coates no good for he became ineffective for the first time since he stepped into the joust as a relief pitcher during the ninth.

Wilbur Stinchfield started for the Stars and was driven out in two innings. Torrance got two in the first on Moon's single, Louie Neva's single and Leonard's long triple to center. Metha's single, a passed ball, a wild pitch and Moon's fly to Preble in short right gave the champions another in the second.

DeBuck Hurls Well Ira DeBuck replaced Stinchfield in the third, and hurled magnificently until he lost control in the ninth. He did not give up a run in that time while Santa Ana peeked away at Neva until it overcame Torrance's edge and secured a 6-5 lead of its own.

The Stars scored twice in the third, DeBuck starting it with a bunt. Denney singled and Ballard sacrificed. Ed Daley's single to right scored DeBuck and Denney. Sears followed with a double which sent Daley to third, and Conrad walked, but Young forced Sears at third for the final out.

Daley opened the fifth with a single and Preble sacrificed. Sears struck out but Conrad singled to right and Tommy Young tripled over Paul Neva in deep center, scoring Daley and Conrad. Young's blow wash a cinch homer but it fell into soft dirt and bounced straight up into the air, Neva retrieving it in time to hold Young at third. Koral fouled out, leaving Young stranded.

Leonard's Hit Tie Score DeBuck's single, a wild pitch, a passed ball and Ballard's single gave the Stars their 5-3 advantage in the sixth which was wiped out in the ninth. DeBuck struck out Vonderahe, but walked Moon. McClure beat out a bunt. The Stars' board of strategy ordered Leonard to maneuver long to ground when Forney popped out to Preble. But Leonard singled on a line to center, scoring both with Moon and McClure with the tying runs. Manager Bill Cole then called on Coates and the kid retired the side by fanning Paul Neva.

Coates pitched brilliantly until the denouement in the "unlucky" thirteenth. QUITS PRO GRID

Jim Musick, below, former Trojan fullback, who announced his retirement from professional football today to accept an appointment as a deputy sheriff of Orange county.

Professional football will get along next year without one of its greatest backs, Jim Musick, of the Boston Braves, who today was appointed an Orange county deputy sheriff in the criminal division by Sheriff Logan Jackson. He assumes his duties June 1.

Musick, No. 2 fullback of the National Professional league last season, said he would retire from football which, it is understood, paid him $3500 in 1933. His salary as deputy sheriff will be $148.75 monthly.

Onetime (1926-27) star at Santa Ana high school, Musick for three years was first string fullback at the University of Southern California before he went into pro football. He is 24.

When an English team goes to Australia, the members receive the same liberal allowance. This is quite a contrast to the financial backing given our Walker Cup team. The cup players were placed in the smallest cabins on the boat and were allowed but $250 with which to pay all their living expenses at St. Andrews and Prestwick, a fact which forced several into such vices as poker and blackjack.

English tennis players roam around just as much as ours, too. And, like ours, they travel at the various club expenses. And, unlike in America, the British athletic code goes in heavy for journalistic work. Diana Fishwick, for example, is the chief golf writer of a London morning paper, and there is the chance that her victory in the Open championship a few years back, and the fact that she still is a ranking player, helped her to get the job.

WESTMINSTER LOSES; OILERS IN FIRST PLACE

Santa Anita tomorrow encounters here the highly touted Follies Cubs in what figures to be one of the best baseball games of the Inter-City league schedule. The two clubs are tied for first place with five victories and two defeats. Game-time is 2:15.

Santa Anita's lineup: J. Koral, ss; Friend, lf; Maldonado, rf; B. Koral, c; Farley, 2b; Villa, cf; Munoz, 3b; Alcantar, 1b; Shepherd, p; Miller, p; Paris, p; Shredricks and Selma, utility.

Westminster was the victim of three infield hits when he lost in the tenth. Comstock beat out a hit to short. Higgins sacrificed. Moody struck out but Coogan and Thrasher beat out infield taps and the last one broke up the ball game.

Westminster got its first run off "String" McDonnell in the seventh when Webb dropped a Texas league double into right and, with two away, scored on Daley's single. The Aviators picked up another in the eighth when Sauers, Montgomery and Webb singled in succession after two were out.

The league-leaders went into a 1-0 lead in the fourth on Zaby's single, Schuchardt's sacrifice and Rodgers' timely single. Sabella was safe when Miller dropped his pop fly in the fifth, and McKinley was safe on another error. Then Thery homed, scoring both runners ahead of him.

Fullerton made its run in the eighth on Widener's double. Morris single and Bell's fielder's choice.

BRITAIN, LIKE U. S. PAMPERS SPORTS HEROES

BY HENRY McLEMORE (United Press Staff Correspondent)

PRESTWICK, Scotland, May 26.—The next time you read an article in which America's pampering of amateur sports stars is condemned and Great Britain is praised for the sensible and highly ethical manner in which it handles the amateur problem, do not hesitate to sound a loud laugh.

For you may take it from me that, regardless of how well prowess in sports pays in the United States, the dividends are not one bit more elegant than in Britain. British amateurs have a reputation for extreme holiness, but it's a trifle exaggerated.

Take the international cricket players, for example. Australia has a team of 16 here now to contest for the hallowed "ashes." The members of the team, all amateurs in good standing, left home in March. They will not return until October. In addition to having every cent of their expenses paid, each player was handed, on leaving Australia, a "spending money" check for 650 pounds, which, in our money, is around $3300.

That's pretty fair "spending money." But that's not all. At the end of the tour, those players whose conduct has been in keeping with the gentlemen's code, will receive a bonus of around $100. Those players who have broken training on the trip will receive a smaller bonus, as it is in the power of the team captain to fine offenders.

JOHNNY LYMAN SHATTERS 104A MARK IN SHOT

FRANKLIN FIELD, Phila., May 26.—Stanford's seven-man track and field team got off to a good start on today's final program of the I. C. 4-A championships by placing one-two in the shot put, first event decided.

John Lyman set a new meet mark of 53 feet, 3-4 in., to win the event. Gordon Dunn was second with 50 feet, 6-7-8 in., giving Stanford a total of nine points. Dean of Harvard, was third in the event, Mackey of California, fourth, and Nittcock of Bowdoin, fifth.

One of yesterday's "upsets" proved to be no upset after all. Dick Hardy of Cornell, defending champion and one of the favorites in the 100 meter, was officially eliminated in the qualifying races. But today, after viewing motion pictures of the semi-final finish, officials reversed their decision. They declared Hardy third instead of fourth and reinstated him in the running. George Weinstein of N. Y. U. who was scored as third yesterday, was given fourth.

Another champion repeated when Horace O'Dell of Manhattan won the javelin throw with 200 ft. 4-8 in., nearly five feet short of his mark. Stanford added four points when Johnny Mottram took second with 196 ft. 4-1-8 in. Little of William and Mary, Buckland of N. Y. U., Beaumont of Michigan State, and King of Penn. accounted for the other places.

Stanford had 13 points after the first two events. Light rain started after the first javelin event.

California's chances of becoming a dark horse victor were virtually shattered when Dick Coe, rated as a possible double winner, finished fifth in the 110-meter high hurdles finals, won by Phil Good of Bowdoin, in 15.1 seconds. Johnny Fatsae of N. Y. U. was second.

Always fish with both fly and bait rods in readiness. If bass are not taking plugs and spinners, you can reach down in the boat, pick up the fly rod all set to do business, and start casting flies and bass bugs without having to stop and rig up the rod.

Here's a corking hunch on fishing with worms. Hook on two or three large worms and pack wet mud around the wigglers. Throw the whole mass into the water and sit back and wait for the worms to work their way out of the mud, which they do in such a life-like manner that they fool even the smartest of fish.

In plug casting from a boat, it is a good plan to hang several varieties of plugs and spinners on the side. In this way you have before you several bait changes which eliminates wasted time scrambling through your tackle box.

Californian Bags 66, Routs Garnett 14-13

By HENRY McLEMORE (United Press Staff Correspondent)

PRESTWICK, Scotland, May 26.—Lawson Little of San Francisco became British Amateur golf champion this afternoon by overwhelming James Wallace, of Scotland, in the 36-hole final. The score was 14 and 13.

The British amateur cup has been won for the fourth time in the 45 times for which it has been played.

Walter Travis, Australian born but living in America, took it to the United States in 1904. Jess Sweetser, although ill, won it for America in 1928.

And Bobby Jones added it, temporarily, to his collection in 1930. In today's final, the young San Franciscan swept through each successive hole like the wind sweeping through the Scottish moors. Six up after the first nine, Little in Lawson Little creased his lead to 12 up at the end of the morning round.

Standing 13 up after 21 holes had been played, Little won the twenty-second with a birdie three to be in the impregnable position of dormie 14.

Little's second shot was 40 feet from the pin but his putter was well trained by that time and the putt went down. Meanwhile, Wallace's second had gone far beyond the pin and his approach putt was weak.

Both drove the green on the 201-yard twenty-third. Wallace was 20 yards from the pin and putted first, lipping the cup and laying a perfect stymlie for Little, who was only four yards from the hole. The San Franciscan played safe, didn't attempt to negotiate the stymlie. Two putts were good enough for him to halve the hole.

COLOMBO NEW BRITISH IDOL

He's Three-Year-Old Colt, Rated Finest Since 1903

HAS MULE EARS, BAD TEMPER

BY HENRY McLEMORE (United Press Staff Correspondent)

PRESTWICK, Scotland, May 26.—His name is Colombo, and he's a magnificent bay thoroughbred with a snow-white triangular star on his forehead. Seven times as a two-year-old and twice as a three-year-old, he has gone to the post, and nine times he has carried Lord Glanely's red, white and blue silks to victory.

Today Colombo is the toast of England. Such is the interest and affection that Colombo has inspired, that his name and achievements are the paramount topic of interest wherever you go. On the street, in the pubs, in the hot spots of Mayfair, on the buses—everywhere—it's Colombo this and Colombo that, and how will Colombo fare in the Derby?

The papers are filled with Colombo's deeds, and when reports were circulated that he was saved, almost by a miracle, from a date Manchester Guardian devoted a column of its editorial page to his defense, suggesting that there should be a law of libel for the protection of traduced racehorses.

Undoubtedly the greatest racehorse England has seen since the war, Colombo already has been made an 11-8 favorite for the Derby, and you can get but five to one that Lord Glanely's horse won't gain the triple crown—the Two Thousand Guineas, the Derby, and the St. Leger. When you remember that, excepting the war years when the fields were poor, the last triple crown winner was Rock Sand in 1902, you realize the esteem in which Colombo is held.

Already he has won the Two Thousand

B. & P. W. Club In Surprise Shower

NEWPORT BEACH, May 26.—The Newport Business and Professional Women's club held its final meeting of the season Friday night, adjourning until September 27, at which time new officers will be elected.

Following a short business meeting in which plans for an outing to be held June 12 at Irvine park were discussed, the group staged a surprise shower for the Misses Joy Wilson and Ruth McDonough, soon to be married.

Grandfather interrupted with another chuckle. "Since time began, boy, it's been the women who've shown us men the way. I calculate every few men ever did think they were wrong, even if they think they're right."

"You old rascal!" Donna laughed happily. "If the truth must be out, Bill hasn't proposed to me yet, but then neither have I proposed to him."

"Want me to go down on my knees and ask you to marry me? I'll do it if you think it's necessary." Seriously "Bill" went on. "It means a lot to me, Grandpa, that you feel there's no barrier between Madeline and me. I'm not kidding myself that there won't be talk. The thing that bothered me most was whether you'd feel the way some others are sure to, that it's against nature for cousins to marry."

"Some cousins, yes," nuzzled Grandfather Siddal. "Where they've been brought up together and sort of drifted into what they think is love, when it's nothing more than propriety—that the world? Such marriages are sure to be a fizzle. But you and Madeline—pshaw. I knew how the wind lay long before you two did. I'll wager a cookie! Not but what I'm grateful and happy to see Madeline contented to stay on here and willing to give up the circus, but I'd have to be blind two ways, both my eyes and my inner vision, not to realize it wasn't the farm and it wasn't me that was the attraction. And you, Bill—shucks, you carried your heart like a bugler carries his horn and you tooted on it every time you came near the child."

"I reckon," said Bill happily, "you've had a grand time watching us suffer."

"It's been kind of interesting, but—" Amos Siddal lowered his voice. "The best part of the show was Mrs. Planter. That woman's speculations would make a donkey laugh. Won't she have the time of her life spreading the news? Here's a little advice for you two. If you've got to misbehave yourselves, do it in a way that doesn't do it where that woman can see you."

"Huh!" sniffed the housekeeper from her vantage spot behind the living room door.

"I know, Sonny, I know," murmured Grandfather Siddal. "May-be as well you do a little fighting. Sort of proved to yourself that Madeline was the girl you should marry. I knew you were going through some sort of a battle, but I couldn't say anything till you came to me to talk it over."

"I never dreamed you'd take it like this," Bill stammered huskily. "It makes me feel all kinds of a fool. If Madeline hadn't—"

DONNA of the BIG TOP by BEULAH POYNTER

BEGIN HERE TODAY
Donna Gabriel and Madeline Siddal who call themselves "The Gabriel Sisters" are circus performers. Years earlier, Madeline ran away from her father's home.

When Donna is injured in a fall from the trapeze Madeline arranges for her to be taken to Grandfather Siddal's farm. To please her partner Donna pretends to be Madeline. She falls in love with Bill, but Madeline's cousin, and though she is ashamed of deceiving Bill and Grandfather she is afraid to tell them the truth.

Meanwhile Madeline marries Con David, animal trainer with the circus. Although she is terrified of lions and tigers she forces her to take part in the animal act.

Back on the farm Bill confesses his love to Donna.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY. CHAPTER XVII
Donna moved away a step so that she could look into the young man's face. "Bill!" she said, "we don't marry—what do you do?"

"Don't you? I've been thinking about it and night," he answered gloomily. "Almost from the first I've been thinking about it. When you fell and were hurt I was even glad enough to hope you might be crippled so that I could take care of you always. Then every day you grew stronger and lovelier and it all became so hopeless—" He stared across the orchard, seeing none of the beauty of his surroundings.

"Are you a coward?" Donna asked tensely.

"What do you mean?"

"If I were a man who loved a woman and knew that she loved me I wouldn't worry about public opinion or anything else. I'd take her and hold her and let the rest of the world go hang."

He gave a sudden, boyish laugh and swept her into his arms again. "And that's what I'm going to do, dear. Just that! Maybe no one will even be surprised if they do."

"We'll tell him now. Shall we?" he said after a few moments.

"What if I do?" he interrupted dryly.

"Well, land sakes, when there's such carryings-on a body has a right to use field glasses and anything else, I should think."

"So," said the old man smiling, "to hold hands is misbehavior. And a kiss—do you know, Mrs. Planter, there isn't anything in life quite so sweet as a first kiss between a boy and girl in love for the first time? I believe their souls sort of fly away from this earth when their lips touch. Poets have written a lot about love and musicians have sung some mighty pretty tunes about it, but I don't think there's ever anything been written or sung that half expresses it."

"My land!" gasped the woman. "Do you mean to tell me you can sit there and rave about love and kisses when it's your Granddaddy and her cousin, Bill Siddal, I'm talking about? Cousins! Making love! Cousins!"

"What of it? Hand me my pipe, please. Love is love, Mrs. Planter, whether there's a strain of kin or not. Personally I'd wonder what was wrong with Bill if he didn't love Madeline, and if she couldn't see him for the fine upstanding lad he is she wouldn't be all I'm thinking she is. I wouldn't worry about them too much, if I was you."

"I'm not worrying," the housekeeper sniffed. "I might have known she'd play up to him, though. And of course it's to his advantage to marry her. That'll keep everything in the family, so to speak."

"That will do," Amos Siddal said with unusual sharpness.

Mrs. Planter clamped her lips together. Then, with a sniff and toss of her head, she left the room. "Taint natural," she muttered.

"It just ain't natural that he shouldn't care if they marry. He's getting childish. Mebbe he thinks if Madeline marries Bill she won't hanker to go back to the circus, or mebbe there's something funny about it all—the way she's changed and everything."

But Mrs. Planter's bewilderment over Amos Siddal's attitude did not prevent her from stealing into the hallway to eavesdrop on the scene that took place when the young couple came in to announce their news.

Donna's face was rather tense and colorless, but Bill's cheeks were crimson, as, still hand in hand, they entered the living room.

"That you, Madeline and Bill?" Grandfather asked.

"Yes," Bill answered. "We've something we want to tell you."

"Have you? Not bad news, I hope."

"It isn't to us. It's—it's wonderful, but you—" Bill stammered hopelessly.

The old man chuckled. He held out his hands and boy and girl stepped forward. "I think I know what you're trying to say. Seems like I can see the light in your eyes and feel that sort of choke in your throat. It's been a long time since I felt that a-way myself, but I reckon if you were ever in love and happy and you never forgot it." He put his hands together and patted them lovingly.

"You know!" Bill gasped.

"If I hadn't already guessed it Mrs. Planter would have seen to telling me. So you love each other?"

"Yes," Donna said. The single word carried more feeling than long phrases could have done.

"And I suppose you've been worrying and wondering what to think about it. Worrying and wondering whether you had a right to get married. Maybe 20 years ago I'd have said, 'Better say goodbye and let time heal the hurt, but I don't feel that a-way now. Real love isn't so common that we've got a right to crush it. And I'm figuring the love you two children have for each other is the real thing.'"

"It is," said Bill solemnly. "I knew the first minute I looked at Madeline that she was the one for me and that I'd never care for anyone else as long as I lived. I've fought tooth and nail against my love, but it wasn't any use."

"I know, Sonny, I know," murmured Grandfather Siddal. "May-be as well you do a little fighting. Sort of proved to yourself that Madeline was the girl you should marry. I knew you were going through some sort of a battle, but I couldn't say anything till you came to me to talk it over."

"I never dreamed you'd take it like this," Bill stammered huskily. "It makes me feel all kinds of a fool. If Madeline hadn't—"

Grandfather interrupted with another chuckle. "Since time began, boy, it's been the women who've shown us men the way. I calculate every few men ever did think they were wrong, even if they think they're right."

DONNA of the BIG TOP by BEULAH POYNTER

BEGIN HERE TODAY
Donna Gabriel and Madeline Sidal who call themselves "The Gabriel Sisters" are circus performers. Years earlier Madeline ran away from her grandfather's home.

When Donna is injured in a fall from the grandstand, Madeline goes for her to be taken to Grandfather Sidal's farm. To please her partner, Madeline pretends to be in love with Bill Sidal, Madeline's cousin, and though she is ashamed of deceiving Bill, she is afraid to tell him the truth.

Meanwhile Madeline marries Con Dalton, a circus trainer with the circus. Although she is terrified of the lions and tigers he forces her to take part in the animal act.

Back on the farm Bill confesses his love to Donna.

CHAPTER XVII

Donna moved away a step so that she could look into the young man's face. "Bill," she said, "if we don't marry—what will we do?"

"That's what I've been thinking about day and night," he answered gloomily. "Almost from the first I've been thinking about it. When you fell and were hurt I've even thought enough to hope you might be crippled so that I could take care of you always. Then every day you grew stronger and lovelier and it all became so hopeless—" He stared across the orchard, seeing none of the beauty of his surroundings.

"Are you a coward?" Donna asked tensely.

"What do you mean?"

"If I were a man who loved a woman and knew that she loved me I wouldn't worry about public opinion or anything else. I'd take her and hold her and let the rest of the world go hang."

He gave a sudden, boyish laugh and swept her into his arms again. "And that's what I'm going to do, dear. Just that! Maybe no one will even be surprised that we should marry. And if they do—"

"We shall always be here, when your grandfather dies—" Her voice was lost under his kiss.

"We'll tell him now. Shall we?" he said after a few moments.

She nodded. Hand in hand they walked through the orchard and across the meadow, their feet sinking into deep, lush grass. Now and then Bill paused to kiss her or give her an ecstatic hug. Madeline, like her, had let her soul be led and his spirits had risen with the decision.

But before they reached the house Donna's elation vanished. She had triumphed over Bill's scruples. She knew, though he didn't, that there was no real obstacle in the way of kinship to their marriage. But she knew also that there was another barrier far more real and sinister. Conscience bade her to tear it down, to share her secret with Bill and leave it to him to decide whether or not she was worthy to become his wife. Some day he would learn the truth. It was too much to expect that their lives could go on without the ugly secret being revealed. Out of the past would come some person, some memory to disclose the truth. And then what?

Mrs. Planter, standing on the back porch, saw the two approach. With a pair of field glasses she noted their hands entwined and her thin lips curled over her yellow teeth in an ugly snarl. She whirled about and went into the house.

"Amos! Amos Sidal!" she called.

"What is it, Mrs. Planter?"

"Amos, I'm no meddler and if you was up and could see for yourself I wouldn't say a word about what ain't my business. Nobody can say I ever interfere where I shouldn't, but when I see blood cousins misbehaving themselves in a way that only a couple that means to get married should, then I feel it my bounden duty to speak out."

"It never occurred to me, Mrs. Planter," said the old man gently, "that even young couples who intend to be married should misbehave themselves. Suppose you tell me just what these blood cousins have been doing?"

"They're holdin' hands in the field—nothing else but! And kissin', too. I seen 'em with my own eyes and—"

"And a spy glass?" he interrupted dryly.

"Well, land sakes, when there's such carryings-on a body has a right to use field glasses and anything else, I should think."

"So," said the old man smiling, "to hold hands is misbehavior. And a kiss—do you know, Mrs. Planter, there isn't anything in life quite so sweet as a first kiss between a boy and girl in love for the first time? I believe their souls sort of fly away from this earth when their lips touch. Poets have written a lot about love and musicians have sung some mighty pretty tunes about it, but I don't think there's ever anything been written or sung that half expresses it."

"My land!" gasped the woman. "Do you mean to tell me you can sit there and rave about love and kisses when it's your Granddaughter and her cousin, Bill Sidal, I'm talkin' about? Cousins! Making love. Cousins!"

"What of it? Hand me my pipe, please. Love is love, Mrs. Planter, whether there's a strain of kin or not. Personally I'd wonder what was wrong with Bill if he didn't love Madeline, and if she couldn't see him for the fine up-standing lad he is she wouldn't be all 'I'm thinking she is. I wouldn't worry about them too much, if I was you."

"I'm not worrying," the housekeeper sniffed. "I might have known she'd play up to him, thinking she is. I wouldn't worry about them too much, if I was you."

"I'm not worrying," the housekeeper sniffed. "I might have known she'd play up to him, thinking she is. I wouldn't worry about them too much, if I was you."

keep everything in the family, so to speak."

"That will do," Amos Sidal said with unusual sharpness.

Mrs. Planter clamped her lips together. Then, with a sniff and toss of her head, she left the room. "Taint natural," she muttered. "It just ain't natural that he shouldn't care if they marry. He's getting childish. Mebbe he thinks if Madeline marries Bill she won't hanker to go back to the circus, or mebbe there's something funny about it all—the way she's changed and everything."

But Mrs. Planter's bewilderment over Amos Sidal's attitude did not prevent her from stealing into the hallway to eavesdrop on the scene that took place when the young couple came in to announce their news.

Donna's face was rather tense and colorless, as Bill's cheeks were crimson, as still hand in hand, they entered the living room.

"That you, Madeline and Bill?" Grandfather asked.

"Yes," Bill answered. "We've something we want to tell you."

"Have you? Not bad news, I hope?"

"It isn't to us. It's—it's wonderful, but you—" Bill stammered hopelessly.

The old man chuckled. He held out his hands and boy and girl stepped forward. "I think I know what you're trying to say. Seems like I can see the light in your eyes and feel that sort of choke in your throat. It's been a long time since I felt that a-way myself, but I reckon if you were ever in love and bashful and happy and sad at the same time you never forget it. He put their hands together and patted them lovingly.

"You know!" Bill gasped.

"If I hadn't already guessed it, Mrs. Planter would have seen to telling me. So you love each other?"

"Yes," Donna said. The single word carried more feeling than long phrases could have done.

"And I suppose you've been worrying and wondering what I'd think about it. Wondering and worrying whether you had a right to get married. Maybe 20 years ago I'd have said, 'Better say goodbye and let time heal the hurt, but I don't feel that a-way now. Real love isn't so common that we've got a right to crush it. And I'm figuring the love you two children have for each other is the real thing."

"It is," said Bill solemnly. "I knew the first minute I looked at Madeline that she was the one for me and that I'd never care for anyone else as long as I lived. I've fought tooth and nail against my love, but it wasn't any use."

"I know, Sonny, I know," murmured Grandfather Sidal. "Maybe it's as well you did a little fighting. Since time began, boy, it's been the women who've shown us men the way. I calculate very few men ever did their own proposing, even if they think they did."

"You old rascal!" Donna laughed happily. "If the truth must come out, Bill hasn't proposed to me yet, but then neither have I proposed to him."

"Want me to go down on my knees and ask you to marry me? I'll do it if you think it's necessary." Seriously "Ma rent on. It means a lot to me, Grandpa, that you feel there's no barrier between Madeline and me. I'm not kidding myself that there won't be talk. The thing that bothered me most was whether you'd feel the way some others are sure to, that it's against nature for cousins to marry."

"Some cousins, yes," mused Grandfather Sidal. "Where they've been brought up together and sort of drifted into what they think is love, when it's nothing more than propriety—that the world? Such marriages are sure to be a fizzle. But you and Madeline—pahaw. I know how the wind lay long before you two did. I'll wager a cookie! Not but what I'm grateful and happy to see Madeline contented to stay on here and willing to give up the circus, but I'd have to be blind two ways, both my eyes and my inner vision, not to realize it wasn't the farm and it wasn't me that was the attraction. And you, Bill—sakes, you carried your heart like a bugler carries his horn and you tooted on it every time you came near the child."

"I reckon," said Bill happily, "you've had a grand time watching us suffer."

"It's been kind of interesting, but—" Amos Sidal lowered his voice, "the best part of the show was Mrs. Planter. That woman's speculations would make a donkey laugh. Won't she have the time of her life spreading the news? Here's a little advice for you two. If you've got to do me behave your selves—let's her words for it—don't do it where that woman can see you."

"Huh!" sniffed the housekeeper from her vantage spot behind the living room door.

BOOK REVIEWS

By MARY BURKE KING

Merchants of Death by H. C. Englebrecht and F. C. Hanighen, published by Dodd, Mead & Co. President Roosevelt on May 18 in a special message to the Senate asked that the committee for investigation of private manufacture of arms and munitions and international traffic receive the generous support of that body. The committee can hardly bring any more startling facts to light than are brought out in this book and undoubtedly some of the facts presented in it coming to light have revealed the necessity for some control of the arms and munitions situation.

This book and "Cry Havoc" by Beverly Nichols, constitute a terrible indictment of the private manufacture and sale of instruments of war. A similar subject matter of course suggests comparison between these two books. Beverly Nichols' "Cry Havoc" is a smaller book, written in a more emotional style, with a touch of irony which is a relief in so gruesome a study. "Merchants of Death" on the other hand is more comprehensive and factual and could be classified with "Our Movie-Made Children" as a handbook for information on the subject of which it treats.

Salesmanship has been developed to a supreme point in the last few decades and the marketing of munitions and arms, being in the hands of individual enterprise has also developed salesmanship. Consumers of other goods have developed a measure of sales-resistance. In the matter of arms and munitions, however, because the nations have not realized the extent to which they were being equipped by munitions salesmen have not built up any resistance. It is a surprising story of international connivance and manipulation which is spread before us in this book. The floating of stories in one nation about the extensive preparation which another nation is making for war which results in the extraction of new contracts is only one of the methods used. The bribing of government officials who influence the letting of contracts is another of the practices. The tricks of this trade are many and indicate a remarkable resourcefulness and determination which the figures on profits in the business readily make us understand.

One of the resources was the penetration of a salesman to Li Lung Chang, the Chinese. He had heard of the dislike of the Chinese for the foreign devil and so took this precaution to ingratiate himself with the Chinese. He obtained an order.

The international alliances and agreements of the arms manufacturers, the stockholders of the companies, the protection by the countries engaged in the World War of their respective territories from which the raw material for warfare was obtained, the neutral trade in material which was necessary for the continuation of the war is all revealed here. It is an astounding story. And it will be a most disheartening story if it is not heeded by the people of the nations which are shown to be more or less at the mercy of these "Merchants of Death."

Leaves by Carl Crowson, published by Christopher Publishing house.

A joyous refreshment, after reading "Merchants of Death" is the scanning of this book of poems by Carl Crowson. There are almost a hundred of them beginning with "A Poem," the first two lines of which are:

"A poem is a lovely dream,
Sweet with the breath of wood
and stream."

They have been inspired by a sensitive nature and their scope of understanding of these things which stir the emotions bespeaks for them many friends. The phrasing is not always as original as one wishes it were but here and there the restatement of a phrase is quite enticing. The poems Whittier-like are suggested by nature with more than a suggestion here and there of a social consciousness.

All "boosters" attention should be called to the poem "An Epitaph" which relates the sad end of a man who didn't have civic consciousness.

The poems are impregnated with a western flavor. This one "Victory" leaves a particularly nice memory of the book in one's mind: "Man's greatest victory is won not upon fields of mortal strife, Nor yet when men compete for petty things of life; But man's great victory is won when he feels the chastening rod. Yet falters not in his upward climb to God."

Homecoming by Floyd Dell, published by Farrar and Rinehart. The charm of Floyd Dell's writing is not known as widely as it should be. His "Betrayal" was praised highly when it appeared several years ago. Other books have followed. He was associate editor of The Masses and the Liberator; he was literary editor of the Chicago Post which had a reputation for being intellectual; his articles in Vanity Fair and other magazines command respect. "Homecoming" is his autobiography. The attraction of the autobiography for many people may not be curiosity about the author. The book is more than justified by its wide appeal on the ground of kinship. In places the reader says to himself: "I felt just that way," or "that happened to me." And in other places, where one does not recognize the truth of an experience because of having passed through it, one does value it as a revelation of human conduct and reactions because of the ample personal evidence elsewhere in the book that it is an honest presentation of an individual's growth.

A touching section is the story of his realization that he was poor. As the youngest child he had been sheltered from financial worries which were suffered in common by the other members of the family. When the Sunday school teacher appealed for money for the poor children and contributions of food, he took the contribution that his mother gave him, not realizing that the little bag of potatoes for the poor children's potato soup were exactly the same kind of potatoes his mother used in making his own soup.

But Floyd Dell was not a stupid little boy. He came to realize one night, a night before Christmas, that he was poor and he determined never to want anything again. A reaction to this awakening to actual conditions was the change in his regard for his father who had always been his idol. The vision of the idol suffered. But happily, Floyd Dell tells us later on, how he got his father back again, figuratively speaking.

His picture of Greenwich village and the young radical group which was a part of his growing pains is interesting and enlightening reading.

Much of the substance of the book would be fascinating, however it were presented, but presented as it is by an author of genius it is a delightful experience. Among the astounding things in

'MY WEAKNESS', 'STINGAREE' AT BROADWAY SUNDAY

'MASSACRE' ON STATE SCREEN ON WEDNESDAY

"My Weakness," which comes to Walker's State theater Sunday, Monday and Tuesday in a double bill with "Massacre," tells the story of an ugly young duckling, who on a wager is transformed into a ravishing woman who moves from conquest to conquest until she finally lands the man who wagers she could never be made attractive.

Lew Ayres has the masculine lead in the story and Charles Butterworth, Harry Langdon and Sid Silvers carry the comedy angles. The cast also includes Irene Bentley.

The second feature brings Richard Barthelmess as the star in an exposition of the wrongs done the surviving American Indians. He is cast in the role of a well educated Sioux brave who is a star performer with a circus but who through his old father's death on the reservation learns of the misdeeds of his people and takes a hand in a campaign to bring them relief.

Ann Dovrak plays the role of the Indian maid who loves him and Claire Dodd is a society girl who flirts with the Indian brave. Others in the cast are Duddley Digges, Robert Barrat, Arthur Hohl, Sidney Toler and Henry O'Neill.

The other film on the program is "Fighting With Kit Carson," a serial.

EUROPEAN LOVE STORY, BUS TRIP ON DOUBLE BILL

Two films which are regarded as outstanding entertainment are to be shown at Walker's State theater next Wednesday and Thursday, according to Manager Lester J. Fountain to show at the West Coast theater next Friday, Saturday and Sunday.

The first is a murder mystery with a fast comedy tempo and side-splitting laughs. "Private Scandal," with ZaSu Pitts, Phillips Holmes, Mary Brian, Ned Sparks and Lew Cody. The picture is a hilarious murder mystery involving the lives of six interesting and bewildered people.

The second feature is "Harold Teen," based on the comic strip and hailed by motion picture critics as the funniest riot of love and comedy for some time. Hal LeRoy, famous stage dancing star, was brought direct from Broadway to play the part of Harold Teen, who is a newspaper reporter in the screen version. Rochelle Hudson has the role of Lillians. Patricia Ellis shares leading feminine honors. Others in the film include Guy Kibbee, Clara Bank, Hugh Herbert, Hobart Cavanaugh, Chic Chandler and Evelyn Tamblin.

In "Private Scandal," Miss Pitts is secretary to Lew Cody, a real estate broker who is mysteriously murdered after he has threatened to commit suicide. Sparks takes the part of a detective who works on the mystery, which involves many persons.

Special short subjects with the double feature program include "This Little Piggy Went to Market," a Singin' Sam novelty, and world News Events.

"Double Door" features a strong cast including Evelyn Venable, Sir Guy Standing, Kent Taylor, Anne Revere and Mary Morris.

"Merry Wives of Reno" is a picture in which tragedy is forgotten in a storm of laughter. The cast includes Margaret Lindsay, Glenda Farrell, Ruth Donnelly, Donald Woods, Guy Kibbee, Hugh Herbert, Frank McHugh, Roscoe Ates, Hubert Cavanaugh, and others.

The book is the strange dedication which Sherwood Anderson proposed to one of his books, a dedication to Floyd Dell. Not the least interesting aspect of the incident is the biographer's account of it, which would certainly seem to belie the charges made by Sherwood Anderson.

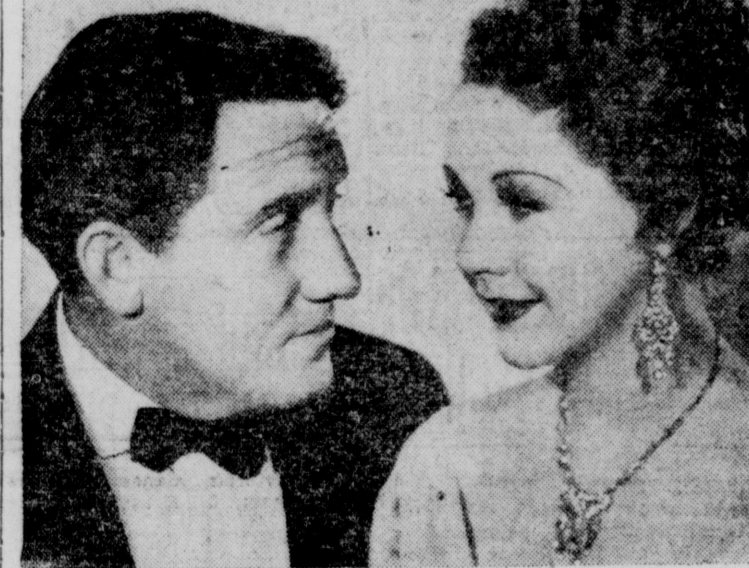

AT BROADWAY SUNDAY

A caricaturist's idea of one of the hilarious scenes in "20th Century," with John Barrymore and Carole Lombard, who play the featured roles in the picture as his subjects, is shown below. The picture, the first broad romantic comedy in which Barrymore has played, opens a three-day engagement at the Broadway theater tomorrow.

STARS OF "NOW I'LL TELL"

Spencer Tracy and Helen Twelvetrees, below, as they appear in "Now I'll Tell," taken from the famous novel by Mrs. Arnold Rothstein, which plays the West Coast theater for four days beginning Monday.

TIM MCCOY COMING IN RACING STORY

An exciting auto racing picture brings Tim McCoy in another one of his new series of adventure and action films to Walker's State theater next Friday and Saturday.

It is the story of intrigue and dirty work on the racing oval with Tim combating crooked drivers and their employers.

Other items on the program of entertainment for these two days are an Andy Clyde comedy, "Dora's Dunking Doughnuts," a news reel; a chapter of "The Wolf Dog," and an Oswald cartoon, "In the Zoo."

SPENCER TRACY '20TH CENTURY' STARS IN FILM AT WEST COAST AT BROADWAY

Spencer Tracy plays his first starring role as the great New York sportsman, Murray Golden, in "Now I'll Tell," by Mrs. Arnold Rothstein, a picture based on Mrs. Rothstein's famous book, which will play a four-day engagement at the West Coast theater starting Monday, according to Manager Lester J. Fountain.

"Now I'll Tell" bares for the first time things millions of men and women have wanted to know about the great drama of a woman's life behind the scenes of the sporting and night life of New York City.

Alice Faye plays her first dramatic role as the "other woman," she puts over a new song, "Foolish With the Other Woman's Man."

Helen Twelvetrees plays the important part of Tracy's wife, while others in the cast include Robert Gleckler, Henry O'Neill, Hobart Cavanaugh, G. P. Huntly Jr., Clarence Wilson, Barbara Weeks, Vince Barnett and lovely little Shirley Temple.

Selected short subjects on the bill include an Edgar Kennedy comedy, "Wrong Direction," a scenic travelogue in technicolor, "Across the Sea," a cartoon, "Buddy of the Apes," and World News Events.

"MURDER AT THE VANITIES" ENDS

Earl Carroll's famous hand-picked beauties are not the only attraction in "Murder at the Vanities" which closes a week's engagement at the West Coast theater tomorrow night.

In addition to the spectacular scenes in which the girls appear, "Murder Vanities" has a tense, dramatic plot in which a murder is committed on the opening night of the show. Music, comedy and romance aid in making the picture most enjoyable.

"Crime Doctor" To Play At Broadway

A detective photoplay hailed a district departure from crime films of the past is said to be attained in "Crime Doctor," which opens at the Broadway theater on Thursday, June 7.

Offering a most novel treatment of the subject, the strange emotional impulses which cause a scientific murder, the picture has a most amazing motive which lends suspense throughout the showing.

Captain Don Wilkie, well known in Orange county who is a former secret service agent, author and lecturer, acted as technical director of the film, which features Otto Kruger, Karen Morley, Nils Asther, Judith Wood and William Frawley.

BOOK REVIEWS

By MARY BURKE KING

Merchants of Death by H. C. Englebrecht and F. C. Hanighen, published by Dodd, Mead & Co.

President Roosevelt on May 18 in a special message to the Senate asked that the committee for investigation of private manufacture of arms and munitions and international traffic receive the generous support of that body. The committee can hardly bring any more startling facts to light than are brought out in this book and undoubtedly some of the facts presented in it coming to light, have revealed the necessity for some control of the arms and munitions situation.

This book and "Cry Havoc" by Beverly Nichols, constitute a terrible indictment of the private manufacture and sale of instruments of war. A similar subject matter of course suggests comparison between these two books. Beverly Nichols' "Cry Havoc" is a smaller book, written in a more emotional style, with a touch of irony which is a relief in so gruesome a study. "Merchants of Death" on the other hand is more comprehensive and factual and could be classified with "Our Movie-Made Children" as a handbook for information on the subject of which it treats.

Salesmanship has been developed to a superlative point in the last few decades and the marketing of munitions and arms, being in the hands of individual enterprise has also developed salesmanship. Consumers of other goods have developed a measure of sales-resistance. In the matter of arms and munitions, however, because the nations have not realized the extent to which they were being operated upon by munitions salesmen have not built up any resistance. It is a surprising story of international connivance and manipulation which is spread before us in this book. The flooding of stories in one nation about the extensive preparation which another nation is making for war which results in the extraction of new contracts is only one of the methods used. The bribing of government officials who influence the letting of contracts is another of the practices. The tricks of this trade are many and indicate a remarkable resourcefulness and determination which the figures on profits in the business readily make us understand.

One of the resources was the penetration of a salesman to Li Lung Chang in the clothes of a Chinese. He had heard of the dislike of the Chinese for the foreign devil and so took this precaution to ingratiate himself with the Chinese. He obtained an order.

The international alliances and agreements of the arms manufacturers, the stockholders of these companies, the protection by the countries engaged in the World War of their respective territories, which the raw material for warfare was obtained, the neutral trade in material which was necessary for the continuation of the war is all revealed here. It is an astounding story. And it will be a most disheartening story if it is not heeded by the people of the nations which are shown to be more or less at the mercy of these "Merchants of Death."

Leaves by Carl Crowson, published by Christopher Publishing house.

A joyous refreshment, after reading "Merchants of Death" is the scanning of this book of poems by Carl Crowson. There are almost a hundred of them beginning with "A Poem," the first two lines of which are:

"A poem is a lovely dream.
"Sweet with the breath of wood
and stream."

They have been inspired by a sensitive nature and their scope of understanding of those things which stir the emotions bespeaks for them many friends. The phrasing is not always as original as one wishes it were but here and there the restatement of a phrase is quite enticing. The poems Whittier-like are suggested by nature with more than a suggestion here and there of a social consciousness.

All "boosters" attention should be called to the poem "An Epitaph" which relates the sad end of a man who didn't have civic consciousness.

The poems are impregnated with a western flavor. This one "Victory" leaves a particularly nice memory of the book in one's mind: "Man's greatest victory is won not upon fields of mortal strife, Nor yet where men compete for petty things of life: But man's great victory is won when he feels the chastening rod. Yet falters not in his upward climb to God."

"Homecoming" by Floyd Dell, published by Farrar and Rinehart. The charm of Floyd Dell's writing is not known as widely as it should be. His "Briary Bush" was praised highly when it appeared several years ago. Other books have followed. He was associate editor of The Masses and the Liberator; he was literary editor of the Chicago Post which had a reputation for being intellectual, and his articles in Vanity Fair and other magazines command respect. "Homecoming" is his autobiography. The attraction of the autobiography for many people may not be curiosity about the author. The book is more than justified by its wide appeal on the ground of kinship. In places the reader says to himself: "I felt just that way," or "that happened to me." And in other places, where one does not recognize the truth of an experience because of having passed through it, one does value it as a revelation of human conduct and reactions because of the ample personal evidence elsewhere in the book that it is an honest presentation of an individual's growth.

A touching section is the story of his realization that he was poor. As the youngest child he had been sheltered from financial worries which were suffered in common by the other members of the family. When the Sunday school teacher appealed for money for the poor children and contributions of food, he took the contribution that his mother gave him, not realizing that the little bag of potatoes for the poor children's potato soup were exactly the same kind of potatoes his mother used in making his own soup.

But Floyd Dell was not a stupid little boy. He came to realize one night, a night before Christmas, that he was poor and he determined never to want anything again. A reaction to this awakening to actual conditions was the change in his regard for his father who had always been his idol. The vision of the idol suffered. But happily, Floyd Dell tells us later on, how he got his father back again, figuratively speaking. His picture of Greenwich village and the young radical group which was a part of his growing pains is interesting and enlightening reading.

Much of the substance of the book would be fascinating, however it were presented, but presented as it is by an author of genius it is a delightful experience. Among the astounding things in

'MY WEAKNESS', "STINGAREE" 'MASSACRE' ON AT BROADWAY STATE SCREEN ON WEDNESDAY

"My Weakness," which comes to Walker's State theater Sunday, Monday and Tuesday in a double bill with "Massacre," tells the story of an ugly young duckling, who on a wager is transformed into a ravishing woman who moves from conquest to conquest until she finally lands the man who wagers she could never be made attractive.

Lew Ayres has the masculine lead in the story and Charles Butterworth, Harry Langdon and Sid Silvers carry the comedy angles. The cast also includes Irene Bentley.

The second feature brings Richard Barthelmess as the star in an exposition of the wrongs done the surviving American Indians. He is cast in the role of a well educated Sioux brave who is a star performer with a circus but who through his old father's death on the reservation learns of the misery of his people and takes a hand in a campaign to bring them relief.

Ann Dovrak plays the role of the Indian maid who loves him and Claire Dodd is a society girl who flirts with the Indian brave. Others in the cast are Duddley Digges, Robert Barrat, Arthur Hohl, Sidney Toler and Henry O'Neill.

The other film on the program is "Fighting With Kit Carson," a serial.

EUROPEAN LOVE STORY, BUS TRIP ON DOUBLE BILL

Two films which are regarded as outstanding entertainment are to be shown at Walker's State theater next Wednesday and Thursday, according to Manager Vic Walker. They are "By Candlelight," a story of romance and the gay doings among the nobility of Europe, starring Elissa Landi and Paul Lukas, with Nils Asther, Esther Ralston and Dorothy Revier in supporting roles, and "Cross Country Cruise," the story of a bus trip.

In the latter film Lew Ayres and June Knight have the leading parts in a story of love and mystery in which a wealthy young man falls in love with a girl who had planned to elope with another man only to find that the other man is married. A murder at one of the stops and the attempted escape of the criminal bring the story to an exciting end.

The bill is completed with a novelty presenting Eddie Duchin's orchestra.

West Coast Books Two-Feature Bill

A double feature program, with "Double Door," a thrilling and fast-moving story of the efforts of an erratic spinster to retain control and destiny of one of New York's oldest and richest families, which gives a humorous slant on the doings in the world's famous divorce colony, will show at the West Coast theater beginning Monday, June 4, for four days. It was announced today by Manager Lester J. Fountain.

"Double Door" features a strong cast including Evelyn Venable, Sir Guy Standing, Kent Taylor, Anne Revere and Mary Morris. "Merry Wives of Reno" is a picture in which tragedy is forgotten in a storm of laughter. The cast includes Margaret Lindsay, Glenda Farrell, Ruth Donnelly, Donald Woods, Guy Kibbee, Hugh Herbert, Frank McHugh, Roscoe Ates, Hubert Cavanaugh, and others.

The book is the strange dedication which Sherwood Anderson proposed to one of his books, a dedication to Floyd Dell. Not the least interesting aspect of the incident is the biographer's account of it, which would certainly seem to belie the charges made by Sherwood Anderson.

"Stingaree," a spectacular dramatization of the career and personal romance of the Australian bandit of that name which will show at the Broadway theater for four days starting Wednesday, Memorial Day, reunites Richard Dix and Irene Dunne as co-stars. The bandit "Stingaree" is of the Robin Hood type, who steals from the rich in order to finance his benevolent activities. The film deals with his supreme adventure, his love for a poor girl whom he promotes into a world famous operatic success.

Miss Dunne has her first opportunity in the picture to thoroughly exploit her glorious voice. In "Stingaree" she sings both popular and operatic songs. The bandit, also, is musical, and spends his spare time composing music.

Mary Boland has a featured role in the picture. Other members of the cast include Una O'Connor, Conway Tearle, Andy Devine and Harry Stephenson.

Short subjects selected by Manager Lester J. Fountain to balance the program include an Our Gang Comedy, "The First Roundup," a novelty, "Bosom Friends," a Screen Souvenir, and World News Events.

TWO FEATURES AT WEST COAST BEGIN FRIDAY

Two pictures of such contrasting nature that enjoyment for the entire family is certain have been booked by Manager Lester J. Fountain to show at the West Coast theater next Friday, Saturday and Sunday.

The first is a murder mystery with a fast comedy tempo and side-splitting laughs. "Private Scandal," with Zasu Pitts, Phillips Holmes, Mary Brian, Ned Sparks and Lew Cody. The picture is a hilarious murder mystery involving the lives of six interesting and bewildered people.

The second feature is "Harold Teen," based on the comic strip and hailed by motion picture critics as the funniest riot of love and comedy for some time.

Hal LeRoy, famous stage dancing star, was brought direct from Broadway to play the part of Harold Teen, who is a newspaper reporter in the screen version. Rochelle Hudson has the role of Lillians. Patricia Ellis shares leading feminine honors. Others in the film include Guy Kibbee, Clara Blandick, Hugh Herbert, Hobart Cavanaugh, Chic Chandler and Evelyn Tamblin.

In "Private Scandal," Miss Pitts is secretary to Lew Cody, a real estate broker who is mysteriously murdered after he has threatened to commit suicide. Sparks takes the part of a detective who works on the mystery, which involves many persons.

Special short subjects with the double feature program include "This Little Piggy Went to Market," a Singin', Sam novelty, and World News Events.

Continuous Run At Two Theaters Memorial Day

To afford residents of Orange county an opportunity to see special shows at both the Broadway and West Coast theaters at whatever time they desire on Memorial Day, which comes Wednesday, Manager Lester J. Fountain has made special arrangements, calling for both theaters to open at 1 o'clock on the afternoon of Memorial Day, and run continuous shows during the balance of the day and evening.

AT BROADWAY SUNDAY

A caricaturist's idea of one of the hilarious scenes in "20th Century," with John Barrymore and Carole Lombard, who play the featured roles in the picture as his subjects, is shown below. The picture, the first broad romantic comedy in which Barrymore has played, opens a three-day engagement at the Broadway theater tomorrow.

STARS OF "NOW I'LL TELL"

Spencer Tracy and Helen Twelvetrees, below, as they appear in "Now I'll Tell By Mrs. Arnold Rothstein," taken from the famous novel by Mrs. Rothstein, which plays the West Coast theater for four days beginning Monday.

TIM MCCOY COMING IN RACING STORY

An exciting auto racing picture brings Tim McCoy in another one of his new series of adventure and action films to Walker's State theater next Friday and Saturday. It is the story of intrigue and dirty work on the racing oval with Tim combating crooked drivers and their employers.

Other items on the program of entertainment for these two days are an Andy Clyde comedy, "Dora's Dunking Doughnuts," a news reel; a chapter of "The Wolf Dog," and an Oswald cartoon, "In the Zoo."

SPENCER TRACY '20TH CENTURY' STARS IN FILM PLAYS SUNDAY AT WEST COAST AT BROADWAY

Spencer Tracy plays his first starring role as the great New York sportsman, Murray Golden, in "Now I'll Tell," by Mrs. Arnold Rothstein, a picture based on Mrs. Rothstein's famous book, which will play a four-day engagement at the West Coast theater starting Monday, according to Manager Lester J. Fountain.

"Now I'll Tell" bares for the first time things millions of men and women have wanted to know about the great drama of a woman's life behind the scenes of the sporting and night life of New York City.

Alice Faye plays her first dramatic role as the "other woman." In the role of cabaret singer, she puts over a new song, "Poolin' With the Other Woman's Man."

Helen Twelvetrees plays the important part of Tracy's wife, while others in the cast include Robert Gleckler, Henry O'Neill, Hobart Cavanaugh, G. P. Huntly Jr., Clarence Wilson, Barbara Weeks, Vince Barnett and lovely Shirley Temple.

Selected short subjects on the bill include an Edgar Kennedy comedy, "Wrong Direction," a scenic travelogue in technicolor, "Across the Sea," a cartoon, "Buddy of the Apes," and World News Events.

'MURDER AT THE VANITIES' ENDS

Earl Carroll's famous hand-picked beauties are not the only attraction in "Murder at the Vanities" which closes a week's engagement at the West Coast theater tomorrow night.

In addition to the spectacular scenes in which the girls appear, "Murder at the Vanities" has a tense, dramatic plot in which a murder is committed on the opening night of the show. Music, comedy and romance aid in making the picture most enjoyable.

'Crime Doctor' To Play At Broadway

A detective photoplay hailed a district departure from crime films of the past is said to be attained in "Crime Doctor," which opens at the Broadway theater on Thursday, June 7.

Offering a most novel treatment of the subject, the strange emotion it implies, which cause a scientific murder, the picture has a most amazing motive which lends suspense throughout the showing.

Captain Don Wilkie, well known in Orange county who is a former secret service agent, author and lecturer, acted as technical director of the film, which features Otto Kruger, Karen Morley, Nils Asther, Judith Wood and William Frawley.

John Barrymore's latest starring production, the hilarious picture based on the noted Broadway success, "20th Century," comes to the Broadway Theater tomorrow for a three-day engagement. It was announced by Manager Lester J. Fountain.

The picture tells the story of an eccentric, self-centered and egocentric theatrical producer and his efforts to sign a contract with a great stage star, played by Carole Lombard. She has previously been in his employ, and will have nothing to do with him. The producer finally tricks her into signing after a series of stratagems that are highly ludicrous.

The supporting cast includes Walter Connolly, Roscoe Karns, Ralph Forbes, Etienne Girardot and Charles Levison.

A novelty picture, "Those Were the Days," a sports film, "Harnessed Lightning," and World News are included in the special selection of short subjects.

'UPPER WORLD' TO END AT BROADWAY

Thrilling incidents predominate "Upper World" which concludes its showing here at the Broadway theater tonight. The film is a story of a double murder in a millionaire's love nest.

Based on the famous novel by Ben Hecht, the picture features Warren Williams in the role of a millionaire railway magnate, whose society wife who neglects him, a part played by Mary Astor, causes him to turn to a burlesque queen, played by Ginger Rogers.

Short subjects include a musical, "Moroccan Nights," a Merry Melody cartoon, "Going to Heaven on a Mule," a novelty, "March of Progress," and World News Events.

Garbo And Gilbert To Be Reunited

Greta Garbo and John Gilbert are reunited as screen lovers after a separation of five years in the noted historical romance, "Queen Christina," which will open at the Broadway theater on Sunday, June 3, it was announced today by Manager Lester J. Fountain.

"Queen Christina" is the story of Sweden's glamorous regent of the seventeenth century who sacrificed her country and her throne for love and religious motives. Such favorite players as Lewis Stone, Ian Keith, Elizabeth Young, C. Aubrey Smith, Reginald Owen, Georges Renevent, David Torrence, Gustav Von Seyffertitz and Ferdinand Munier are included in the strong supporting cast.

Lyric Baritone Plans Intriguing Program For Ebelt Women

Continuing that variety which has seemed to characterize Ebelt society programs this year, the program committee will present on Monday afternoon at 2 o'clock in the clubhouse auditorium, the famous Spanish lyric baritone, Felipe Delgado, in a program of songs of Spain, Old Mexico and early California.

Senior Delgado's position as a direct descendant of one of the first families helping make history in Santa Fe, New Mexico, gives him authentic understanding of the peoples represented by his song groups, and to heighten the effect of his numbers, he dons the special costume illustrating the land from which his songs have sprung. Critics have found his dramatizations no less effective than his rich and beautifully trained voice for he is said to have that fine sense of drama that is typical of the Latin races.

He has announced as the numbers which he will present Monday, a Spanish group to include Panella's "La Espanola", "Guitarros Y Flores" and "Viva Sevilla by del Moral. His accompanist will be Anna Maud Van Hoose, quite as gifted an artist in her piano work as is the baritone, and Miss Van Hoose will play solos between the various song groups, her first one announced as "Cordova" by Lecuna, and that to follow the Mexican numbers as "Malaguena" by the same composer.

Senior Delgado's songs of Mexico will be "Las Mananitas" arranged by Perches; "La Alondra" (Miss Van Hoose's arrangement), "He de Dia Ni de Noche" and "Cuando Me Vaya" by Grever, while for his final group, characterized by early California music, will be "Alma Palsana," his own arrangement of "La Paloma Blanca," and two folk songs, "La Sena" and "El Capotin."

Lyric Baritone Plans Intriguing Program For Ebell Women

Continuing that variety which has seemed to characterize Ebell society programs this year, the program committee will present on Monday afternoon at 2 o'clock in the clubhouse auditorium, the famous Spanish lyric baritone, Felipe Delgado, in a program of songs of Spain, Old Mexico and early California.

Senor Delgado's position as a direct descendant of one of the first families helping make history in Santa Fe, New Mexico, gives him authentic understanding of the peoples represented by his song groups, and to heighten the effect of his numbers, he dons the special costume illustrating the land from which his songs have sprung. Critics have found his dramatizations no less effective than his rich and beautifully trained voice, for he is said to have that fine sense of drama that is typical of the Latin races.

He has announced as the numbers which he will present Monday, a Spanish group to include Panella's "La Espanolita," "Guitarros Y Flores" and "Viva Sevilla by del Moral. His accompanist will be Anna Maud Van Hoose, quite as gifted an artist in her piano work, as is the baritone, and Miss Van Hoose will play solos between the various song groups, her first one announced as "Cordova" by Lecuna, and that to follow the Mexican numbers as "Malaguena" by the same composer.

Senor Delgado's songs of Mexico will be "Las Mananitas" arranged by Perches; "La Alondra" (Miss Van Hoose's arrangement), "He de Dia Ni de Noche" and "Cuando Me Vaya" by Grever, while for his final group, characterizing early California music, will be "Alma Paisana," his own arrangement of "La Paloma Blanca," and two folk songs, "Le Sena" and "El Capotin."

Preceding the formal program will be a very brief business interval conducted by the president, Mrs. Charles V. Davis, before her introduction of the guest artists.

Parent-Teachers

Members and friends of Julia Lathrop P.T. A. found the final program of the year, given Tuesday afternoon by the home economics department of the junior high school, one of the most interesting of the entire year's series.

Mrs. Ethel Slinke, entertainment chairman, launched the girls' Glee club, directed and accompanied by Mrs. Maxine Bryte. In keeping with the theme of Home Making, they sang "The Old Spinning Wheel" with Faith Henderson, Betty Henderson and DuVerne Lambert in the trio part.

Miss McFarland, cafeteria supervisor, followed with a valuable paper on the importance of proper noon lunches for children. Mrs. Slinke introduced Betty Jo Willis as announced further numbers in verse form. Adelaide Johnson read Edgar Guest's poem, "Home Makers"; home economics class activities were cleverly depicted by poems and songs presented by Darlene Brickey, Beulah Cairns, Adelaide Johnson, Dorothy Krisher, Lucille Dehne, Betty Jo Williams and Lucille Griggs, concluding with a most entertaining song, "Dietetic Harmonies."

A fashion show was presented by the girls of the sewing classes under the direction of Miss Henrietta Foster. As the garments were exhibited, a descriptive poem was read by Louise Johnson. Demonstrations of seventh grade work were given by Margaret Deeson, Barbara Rombough and Betty Reed; newly made cooking uniforms by Margaret Rice, Margaret Garcia, Fay Martin, Victoria Marquez and Lorraine Clark; print dresses by Glessa Burk, Iris Crawford, Evelyn Gardner, Janet Bates and Hope Gomez.

Eight grade girls appearing in skirts they had made were Margaret Aubrey, Virginia Caldwell, Dorothy Davis, Dorothy Drebrow, Billie Wieland, Darlene Brickey, Beulah Cairns, Carolyn Huggins and Ellen Neal. Those wearing new blouses were Barbara Stevenson, Orpha Henderson, Ruby Tomlinson, Virginia Waters, DuVerne Lambert. Ninth grade girls exhibited pajamas and dresses. In the former group were Ruth Mary Reichstein, Lois Riggs, Reylene Turney, Marguerite Fox and Elizabeth Kilson. Modeling dresses were Winifred Brown, Virginia Graves, Beulah Kite, Anne McKenna, Ruth Rime, Lois Riggs, Mary Jane Wolder, Barbara Lindsey, Ellen Blake and Darlene Foy. Tenth grade girls showing sport and afternoon frocks were Helen Andrews, Violet Brown, Maxine Knight, Fay Ward, Etta Loundsbury, Helene Stark and Pearl Graham.

The program was concluded by a skit, "The Greatest Profession, Home-making," presented by Dorothy Davis, Beulah Cairns, Lucille Dehne, Barbara Vore, Betty Willis, Melba Lee, Adelaide Johnson, Darlene Brickey, Anita Smith, Billie Wieland and Dorothy Krisher.

Guests then visited the room where work was on display, and then the foods departed, where canned fruits, vegetables, jams and jellies were exhibited. Here punch and wafers, made and served by the girls of the cooking classes, made a happy conclusion to a most interesting afternoon.

Do you know that a few spoonfuls of left-over crab cocktail, added to a cream sauce, makes the most heavenly sauce for fish? Try it for yourself.

Au revoir until Monday.

Jellied Orange Salad

1 package orange jelly powder

1 small can grapefruit

2 large oranges.

Prepare the jelly powder according to directions, adding the can of grapefruit and its liquid, plus an extra quarter-cup of water. Peel the orange, cut in half and cut away the center segment. Slice in thin wafers into the liquid jelly. Chill for several hours. Take up by ragged spoonfuls, put on crisp lettuce and dress with a sharp mayonnaise.

A generous salad of this variety has a caloric value of 350.

Small toasted cheese sandwiches complement this type of salad. If you wish something more definitely formal you might serve a hot crab dish.

Make 2 cups of cream sauce, adding to it 1-4 cup grated cheese when cooked. To 1-2 pound of flaked fresh crab add 1-2 cup catsup, lemon juice, paprika, finely minced celery, and 2 Tbsp. mayonnaise. Mix as for cocktail, add to the hot cream sauce, stir lightly for a moment, and serve in patty shells or over thin buttered toast.

Small toasted cheese sandwiches complement this type of salad. If you wish something more definitely formal you might serve a hot crab dish.

WEEKLY SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

The Last Judgement

Text: Matt. 25:31-46
The International Uniform Sunday School Lesson for May 27

BY WM. E. GILROY, D. D.
Editor of Advance

Judgment is a great word and a great idea in the Old and New Testaments. It is what marks the greatness of both Old Testament religion and New Testament religion; for there can be no greatness of religion where there are not high and exacting standards.

The failure to understand that sometimes has led to slackness, to the promulgation of religions that have not required much from those who believed in them and followed them.

Sometimes the exactions of religion have been so formal and have had so little to do with moral or spiritual reality that there has been a strong reaction, and from being apparently too strict people have come to make a sort of religion of lack of strictness.

The late Dr. George A. Gordon of Old South Church in Boston, once preached a great sermon on judgment, in which he regretted judgment as the supreme thing in the life of an earnest and honest man, the one great goal toward which he was moving.

Surely this is true in every sphere of honest life and labor. The artist does not wish to produce something cheap or worthless. He values judgment upon his work and he is anxious to satisfy the critics who know.

The honest workman wants his work to stand the test. He does not resent the discovery of some flaw, because he wants to make his work perfect.

What was the idea that Jesus had of judgment? He thought it was inevitable for man, and he pictured all life as moving toward the great last judgment. We do not know how much the portrayal in our lesson is symbolic, but at any rate it is symbolic of a real fact.

It is not surprising that men should fear judgment, as much as they seek it. They want judgment to be fair and reasonable. They do not want to be in the hands of some arbitrary judge who will be swayed by prejudice or by hate.

Jesus taught that we are to be judged by a God of love, who understands all that enters into the judgment. Yet he indicated that this judgment would be stern, if it was also loving.

It would reveal all sham and pretense in life. It was a judgment in which little deeds of kindness and gentle words would outweigh all profession of righteousness where there had been no sincerity of kindness in act or word.

So we have this striking portrayal of some of those who professed the most being turned away in spite of their claims, while those who had given a cup of cold water, in the name of Jesus, to a thirsty woman were approved by Christ, though they felt their own unworthiness.

The teaching of the lesson is so clear and plain that words can add hardly anything to the reality of Christ's great picture. All life moves toward the judgments of an exacting, but a just, righteous and loving God.

Come to Church

In times such as these, especially, are you fortified and lifted up by the word of God. The church alone can give you a philosophy of life that will sustain you through the bitterest trials. More, it can teach you the joys of spiritual contentment.

Start now to attend the services of your preference regularly. The sun will soon shine brighter in your heart.

Poor Humpty Dumpty was afraid. He said, "I really fear you've made a big mistake. Why did you bring that ladder to this wall?"

"Oh! Mother Goose told me to stay right on the wall, and not go away. She knew that I'd get dizzy, after while, and take a fall."

"Then I would smash to bits, you see! I'd love to climb right over and join you, but I do not dare."

"Oh! don't be silly," Scouty cried. "We're trying to help you save your hide. Don't worry, now, 'bout Mother Goose. I'm sure she will not care."

"She knows all of us very well, and she has treated us just as well. If she comes here and finds you down, well, gladly take the blame."

Poor Humpty scratched his oval head for just a moment. Then he said, "All right, I'll do just as you say, to prove that I am game."

"But, say, before I start my trip, please place the ladder so 'twon't slip." "We're holding it," said Scouty. "Come ahead! It's safe and sound."

"Twas fun to watch the fat man climbing down. He had an awful time. Soon little Goldy shouted, 'Well, at last you're on the ground.'"

Then Humpty Dumpty roared aloud and, when he could, he told the crowd, "I've played a good joke on the old king's horses and his men."

"They have been told that I will stop, and soon they'll rush up."

FLAPPER FANNY SAYS:

here and stop, all thinking that they're going to put me back in shape again.

"But, I'll be gone. Ha, ha! Ho, ho! Come on, you Tinymites, let's go. But, first, I'll shake your hands and thank you all for what you've done."

The shaking stunt was shortly over. Then down the road the whole bunch tore. Oh! Humpty made the tots move fast. My, how the man could run!

THE TINYMITES

STORY BY MAL COCHRAN—PICTURES BY KING

Poor Humpty Dumpty was afraid. He said, "I sadly fear you've made a big mistake. Why did you bring that ladder to this wall?"

"Oh! Mother Goose told me to stay right on the wall, and not go away. She knew that I'd get dizzy, after while, and take a fall."

"Then I would smash to bits, you see! I'd love to climb right over you, but I do not dare."

"Oh don't be silly," Scouty cried. "We're trying to help you save your hide. Don't worry, now, 'bout Mother Goose. I'm sure she will not care."

"She knows all of us very well, and she has treated us just as well. If she comes here and finds you down, well, gladly take the blame."

Poor Humpty scratched his oval head for just a moment. Then he said, "All right, I'll do just as you say, to prove that I am game."

"But, say, before I start my trip, please place the ladder so 'twon't slip." "We're holding it," said Coppy. "Come ahead! It's safe and sound."

"That's fun to watch the fat man climbing down. He had an awful time. Soon little Goldy shouted, 'Well, at last you're on the ground.'"

"Then Humpty Dumpty roared aloud and, when he could, he told the crowd, 'I've played a good joke on the of king's horses and his men.'"

"They have been told that I will stop, and soon they'll rush up here and stop, all thinking that they're going to put me back in shape again."

"But, I'll be gone. Ha, ha! Ho, ho! Come on, you Tinymites, let's go. But, first, I'll shake your hands and thank you all for what you've done."

The shaking stunt was shortly over. Then down the road the whole bunch tore. Oh! Humpty made the tots move fast. My, how the man could run!

Weekly Citrus Review
ORANGES
LOS ANGELES, May 26.—(Office of the Fruit Workers.) The market on both Navel and Valencia took an upward turn this week. Prices were higher all along the line and the situation as a whole closed in a blaze of glory much to the gratification of all concerned.

Navel will clean up next week and as predicted several weeks ago, the outlook is for a specially strong market on the balance of the Navel crop.

Valencias are also giving good satisfaction and with Florida rapidly cleaning up on her orange shipments, a continued good Valencia market is anticipated.

Central California districts will be shipping Valencias up until the middle of June.

The Valencia prorata for next week is set at 1200 cars.

F. O. B. California quotations on Fancy Valencias are on a basis of $2.75 to $2.75 on 150s and 252s; $2.75 to $2.90 on 170s and 252s; $2.50 to $2.65 on 252s; $2.15 to $2.25 on 344s and $2.00 to $2.10 on 352s.

LEMONS
The market on California lemons was higher this week and the week due to high temperatures throughout the middle west and parts of the east. Toward the latter part of the week however the market eased up somewhat due to moderating temperatures.

Extra Choice lemons, all sizes, are on a basis of $5.00 to $5.50 per box. There are no lemons in California for sale within the next 30 days in all United States ports approximately 14 cars of foreign lemons. For the corresponding period in 1933 there were 26 cars; 1932, 18 cars; 1931, 106 cars; 1930, 406 cars, and 1929, 165 cars.

THE EPIDEMIC OF STRIKES

It is to be presumed that the epidemic of strikes of which we hear from all parts of the country is inevitable in our economic and industrial system. It is not always easy to place the blame. There are those who will lay all the blame on the employers; and there are quite as many who will lay it to the workers.

Strikes, however, are a symptom of an economic disorder. We shall never be without them as long as there is a spirit of antagonism rather than of co-operation in industry. The problem of converting that antagonism into co-operation is not as simple as it may seem. We know that when a war has once begun, peace is not easily made. Even when a war ends, its aftermath is apt to be quite as serious as the war itself.

This is quite as true in labor disputes. A victory for one side or another is simply the beginning of another strife later on. Employers compelled to yield, or workers compelled to surrender, leave the problem still serious. Sometime ago, it was thought that agreements made between master and workman, with an impartial arbitrator to interpret them as questions of disagreement arose, might solve the whole question of strikes. This has proven to be a disappointment. Strikes go on, the economic order becomes economic disorder. The matter gets into politics. It even affects the impartial service of the police.

It is this situation which makes many feel that fascism is the only solution. They point to the confusion in Italy before the rise of Mussolini, and the economic order which exists there now. But we Americans have always gone on the principle that in the conflict of forces the truth is struck out. Clamping on a lid does not solve the question of a great head of steam. Slave labor grew to be unprofitable because of the lack of initiative and of interest on the part of the slave. A suppressed working class leads to sabotage or loafing on the job.

A way out must be found if capitalism is to endure. Collective bargaining has come to be generally recognized. Who is to participate in the bargaining is still an open question for the future to deal with. Only a spirit of reasonableness on the part of employers and workers, together with a fair distribution of the products of industry, can lead the way out of this industrial turmoil produced by strikes and lockouts.

SCRAPPING THE CODES

News reports from Washington announce the scrapping of many of the codes. It is likely that we shall hear much less rather than more about codes. The application of codes to small trades and industries has not turned out to be practical. The NRA administration has made that discovery, and in accordance with its promises, it has assured the public that if an experiment proves to be unworkable it will be abandoned.

Of course, there will be those who will say, "I told you so." But such are speaking ahead of their turn. All forward movements have been taken by the trial and error process. No man and no group of men are wise enough, especially in dealing with problems that concern self-determining humans, to fix a goal. Progress may be best expressed by two steps forward, and one step backward.

To that process the "new deal" is not to be an exception. But because the codes in smaller trades and industries are to be scrapped, it must not be presumed that it means the scrapping of all codes. It has long been surmised that it was the great monopolistic industries that most needed codes of fair competition. The railroads have long been under regulation against unfair practices. So also the public utilities. The time has now come when the great industries, with their secret gentlemen's agreements, will be brought into line. For years the steel industry has been under such a secret code, imposed largely by the largest units, such as the United States Steel corporation. The Aluminum Company of America has been able to make the lesser aluminum companies bow to its will. Others might be named.

We shall probably find that in these cases the administration will not abandon its control through the medium of the codes of fair practice. More and more as the recovery plans proceed we shall have need to make changes. This is not a matter of discouragement. It is the evidence that by the process of elimination we are getting to the roots of the problem.

DIFFERENT REPORT ON FASCISM

Statements are so often made testifying to Fascism's great benefits to Italy that it is only fair to note that Hugh Quigley, in Current History, states that Fascism has almost completely nullified the economic and social improvements made in Italy between the years 1910 and 1922. "Figures obtained from official Fascist sources would indicate," he says, "that under Fascism labor is worse paid than in almost any other European country."

Mr. Quigley goes on to say in his article that slum areas have been cleared in order to make room for grandiose conceptions such as the great boulevard running from the Capitol to the Coliseum in Rome or the new Park at Santa Lucia in Naples, but no real provision has been made for re-housing the population displaced. In this respect Fascist history is one of unrelieved indifference and brutality. "Commendations of the Fascist regime in Italy have an undermining influence on the principles of democracy. It is well to note that there are other reports being made of the situation of a country under a dictator.

HAL FORREST

Death of Hal Forrest in Laguna Beach last night marks the passing of one of the old school newspapermen.

Forrest served his "cub" days on some of the larger New York journals which today either have passed out of existence or have been merged with others.

For nearly two score years Forrest had been associated with newspapers. He started as "leg man" on the old New York World, later being ordered into the office and subsequently being taken on as "desk man" on other newspapers in New York and Philadelphia.

His marriage to Marion Munson, well known vaudeville star, temporarily ended his newspaper career and in company with his wife he appeared on the theatrical stage in practically every country in the world.

Retiring from the stage Forrest and his wife came to California about fifteen years ago where Forrest returned to the newspaper game. He was employed on the Los Angeles Times and Long Beach Telegram and later published and edited the Laguna Beach Life. At the time of his death he was free lancing and doing correspondence for several newspapers, including The Register.

Forrest was a tireless worker and even during the last few months while suffering from heart disease he never shirked his duty to his newspapers, being "on call" late at night and in the early morning hours.

His passing will be mourned by newspapermen up and down the Pacific Coast. He ended his career true to the traditions of the newspaper game, with his "pencil in his hand."

ANOTHER REVELATION

Most of us from time to time and some of us most of the time, like to review the events of the World War, the peace with Germany, the Versailles Treaty, and the map-making which was based upon those events. They all have bearing on current events.

The other day, over the British broadcasting network, Lord Riddell who represented the British press at the Paris Peace Conference, told some of the events of that conference which are interesting. Of foremost interest in this revelation, is the statement that it was not President Wilson, but Premier Lloyd George who offended Premier Orland. In fact that the Premier was so offended that he cried and was seen to cry by this press representative who was standing outside of the building and saw him come to the window and abandon himself to tears.

When Lloyd George came out, Lord Riddell accosted him about the cause of Orland's tears. According to this report Lloyd George said: He was overcome by a speech I made. It was a touching scene. He began to gulp and then got up and walked to the window and regularly broke down. Wilson was very touched. He was overcome by a speech I made. It was might think that Lloyd George had been "pulling the leg" of the enquiring reporter were it not that we all know that truth is stranger than fiction.

Where Rule Is Personal

San Francisco Chronicle
American commentators on the war Abdul Aziz ibn Saud has been waging so victoriously against his neighbor the Imam Yahya of the Yemen assume that the outcome will be a permanent unification of the greater part of Arabia. They forget that government in Arabia is purely personal and with its intrigue and fickle loyalties is never stronger than the man at the head.

At the moment ibn Saud holds under his sway more of Arabia than has been ruled by any Arabian prince since the first centuries after Mohammed and if he takes the Yemen will have also the richest part of the peninsula. He is an able man without doubt but who knows what will follow when he is gone. If the usual course of Arabian history ensues the independent emirates he has conquered and united in Saudi Arabia will sooner or later fall away and resume their individual existences under their own chiefs.

The desert keeps Arabia scattered, and only a strong hand can hold it together. Whenever a strong man or a strong family has succeeded in uniting two or more provinces it has never been for any great length of time. The State does not exist in Arabia. The ruler is the State and it dies with him.

Depression Produced Increase In Poetry

San Bernardino Sun
A popular monthly magazine reports that the economic depression has brought an astonishing crop of unsolicited poems to its editorial offices. During the first four months of 1934 poems were submitted for publication at the rate of 396 a day. The increase began in 1930 and hit a peak in 1932. After that the amount of verse fell off slightly, but continued to maintain a level almost 25 per cent higher than the pre-depression volume. This particular magazine says only about 75 poems a year, so that the estimated 54,000 poems will leave a large surplus.

Why should the depression so increase the poetry output? Perhaps it hasn't. It has, on a guess, only increased the number of verse-writers who have tried to sell their output. In good times many individuals write poetry for personal pleasure. They put their verses away in desk drawers or send them to friends. In hard times the poems are taken out, polished up and sent to magazine publishers in the hope they may be printed and paid for.

That may not be the whole explanation. There may really be more poem-writing going on, a development of the new leisure.

Volunteer

San Diego Union
In the rioting at Minneapolis, one man was killed—a volunteer policeman. This volunteer policeman was, it was discovered, also vice president of one of the companies involved in the strike. We may admire his courage in getting into the arena to battle for his cause, but we cannot admire the system which permitted it. Was a police badge pinned on any of the strikers—who, according to their lights, were also battling for a cause? A policeman ought to be neutral, representing only the public. Can the boss, or the boss's employe, be neutral?

When battling partisans are given police authority, law and order pass out of the picture.

When The Moon Comes Over The Mountain

More Truth Than Poetry

By James J. Montague

THE DREAM PEDDLER

Flying down to Drowsytown,
When the sun is low,
To seal wee weary eyelids down
The little Dream Peddler goes;
They flutter swiftly homeward then
Without a single sound,
But by and by they come again
To pass the dreams around.

Where they ever find their dream
Puzzling is to me—
Maybe by the singing streams,
Maybe by the sea,
Maybe in some distant star
Shining overhead,
But at twilight there they are
By the trundle-bed.

When the sun is in the sky
To warm the morning air,
Far away the Dream Peddler flies,
No one knows just where.
Yet, wherever they may lurk,
Be it far or near,
They'll be busy at thier work
When the night is near.

Hurry then to bed at night,
Close your shining eyes,
Shut out every ray of light
Till the sun shall rise,
Keep as quiet as you can,
As every child should do,
And probably some pixy-man
Will bring a dream to you.

PARAGRAPHS

By Robert Quillen

Man is fearfully made and noise does dreadful things to his nerves unless he makes it himself.

If a man drinks too much, it's the fault of his home life. The English know how to deal with the Orient. They depend on a big fleet instead of big talk.

There are two classes: the ignorant, who don't know what their government is doing, and the learned, who don't know why. Man or nation, the way to insure peace is not to let the other fellow think he can lick you.

REFRIGERATOR: A KIND OF BOX THAT WILL PRESERVE LEFT-OVERS UNTIL YOU THROW THEM OUT TO MAKE ROOM FOR OTHERS.

So Tugwell likes baseball. Well, it must be fun to hear people bowl out the umpire instead of him. It's our own fault if Japan talks war. She didn't when our fleet was twice the size of hers. What's the use? The better citizen you are, the more you suffer when your government makes a fool of itself.

AMERICANISM: Taking violent exercise in hope of regaining youth; wondering why so many more die of heart trouble.

How would it do to soak only the rich who aren't doing anything to make the country richer? The poor are helping to save America. They also serve who only stand the gaff.

Mr. Roosevelt needn't worry. He called the New Deal "evolution" and the South is still with him.

THE FINAL TEST OF POISE IS TO KEEP VOICE FROM SHAKING WHEN YOU FIRE SOMEBODY.

But now the sun never sets on English markets being gobbled up by Japs.

Provincials are people who think it their duty to improve the neighbors instead of the country. The naughty don't mind being reformed. What they dislike is being reformed by people no better than they are.

You can protect yourself from evil, but Heaven alone can protect you from imbeciles who mean well.

CORRECT THIS SENTENCE: "OUR OBJECT," SAID THE MANUFACTURER, "IS TO MAKE IT SO WELL THAT THE BUYER WILL NEVER NEED ANOTHER ONE."

Thoughts On Modern Life

BY GLENN FRANK

THE NEW DEAL AND THE CODES

I am—as readers of these articles well know by now—sincerely skeptical of the soundness and ultimate workability of a national policy that seeks to reduce production and raise prices.

If—as I think we must sooner or later do—we revive and reverse this two-edged policy, we must do it through a detailed overhauling of the codes. That overhauling, even at this early hour, is, I think, already overdue.

I have been interested in the following clear analysis of the ways in which the codes operate to reduce production and raise prices, as given in an Oxford university press volume on America's Recovery Program.

There are three ways in which production is reduced and prices thereby raised:

(1) Many codes limit the number of hours per week that machinery may be operated.

(2) Some codes prohibit the increase of productive capacity.

(3) Some codes—notably the lumber and timber products code—impose iron-clad production quotas on the members of the industry.

There are six ways in which prices are raised and production thereby reduced:

(1) Most of the codes prohibit sales below cost.

(2) Several codes—notably the electrical manufacturers code—involve an open price plan which obliges all concerns in the industry to file with a central authority their price lists and forbids them to reduce the prices they thus announce without giving notice to their competitors.

(3) Some codes, like the steel code, contain multiple basing point system which effectively prevent any real price competition within the basing point areas.

(4) The retail code provides for a minimum mark-up.

(5) Some codes—notably the oil and coal codes—provide for definite price fixing.

I am singularly unmoved by the wolf cry of revolution raised by the Dr. Wirts. If I were not such a convinced antagonist of all forms of censorship, I should be tempted to feel happy at the permanent silencing of all bogey-mongers. But I should like to see an intelligent and objective political opposition confining itself to a realistic analysis of the ultimate social results of all those devices for reducing production and raising prices. The clarification of public opinion awaits this sort of opposition which, in the long run, will be the highest type of cooperation with the national leadership.

PATIENCE

The list of virtues assigned to teachers and parents always gives patience a prominent place. With all your serving let Patience do her perfect work.

Now I'm not so strong for patience. I would like to be granted in those who serve children as teachers and parents must do. I would be inclined to be impatient with those who were forced to control their tempers and tongues when faced by a childish failure either in work or in conduct.

Mistakes and weaknesses are characteristic in children. If they arrived in this world with all the knowledge and power of the adult there would be no need for us to carry on past their first stages of helplessness, their brief infancy. I suspect that Nature who is ruthless in her economy would wipe us out very quickly. We have a distinct place in her economy. We are to support and guide and launch the children in the strange world they must master. It is at once our duty and our excuse for living. Why then the strain on our patience?

The experienced teacher, and this includes all parents, knows that children have to be trained to live with other people, to master the experiences of the race, to adjust themselves to life in general. They know, too, that in this process of getting understanding, that children will make mistakes, some trifling enough, some very serious. They should know that their share in all this is that of guide and friend. Where then are they to feel martyred and patient?

If a teacher understands his job he rises above the stage of development where patience is a virtue. Whenever I see the look of resigned patience on the face of a teacher or parent I feel impatient. To my way of thinking they should be above patience and well steeped in understanding.

I am gray with years in the field of child training. I know how children can try the souls of their teachers and their parents. I know what suffering they inflict on those who love them. I know too the soul wearing task of the teacher who day by day must face the irritating round of schoolroom tasks. But I also know the joy of helping struggling childhood.

He wonders because he does not understand why you feel that way. He is doing the best he can to follow you. What seems so wrong to you seems all right to him. What he needs is light. What the patient martyr needs is light. Let's have it.

(Mr. Patri will give special attention to inquiries from parents and school teachers on the care and development of children. Write him in care of this paper, enclosing a three-cent stamped, addressed envelope for reply.)

This is quite as true in labor disputes. A victory for one side or another is simply the beginning of another strife later on. Employers compelled to yield, or workers compelled to surrender, leave the problem still serious. Sometime ago, it was thought that agreements made between master and workman, with an impartial arbitrator to interpret them as questions of disagreement arose, might solve the whole question of strikes. This has proven to be a disappointment. Strikes go on, the economic order becomes economic disorder. The matter gets into politics. It even affects the impartial service of the police.

It is this situation which makes many feel that fascism is the only solution. They point to the confusion in Italy before the rise of Mussolini, and the economic order which exists there now. But we Americans have always gone on the principle that in the conflict of forces the truth is struck out. Clamping on a lid does not solve the question of a great head of steam. Slave labor grew to be unprofitable because of the lack of initiative and of interest on the part of the slave. A suppressed working class leads to sabotage or looting on the job.

A way out must be found if capitalism is to endure. Collective bargaining has come to be generally recognized. Who is to participate in the bargaining is still an open question for the future to deal with. Only a spirit of reasonableness on the part of employers and workers, together with a fair distribution of the products of industry, can lead the way out of this industrial turmoil produced by strikes and lockouts.

SCRAPPING THE CODES

News reports from Washington announce the scrapping of many of the codes. It is likely that we shall hear much less rather than more about codes. The application of codes to small trades and industries has not turned out to be practical. The NRA administration has made that discovery, and in accordance with its promises, it has assured the public that if an experiment proves to be unworkable it will be abandoned.

Of course, there will be those who will say, "I told you so." But such are speaking ahead of their turn. All forward movements have been taken by the trial and error process. No man and no group of men are wise enough, especially in dealing with problems that concern self-determining humans, to fix a goal. Progress may be best expressed by two steps forward, and one step backward.

To that process the "new deal" is not to be an exception. But because the codes in smaller trades and industries are to be scrapped, it must not be presumed that it means the scrapping of all codes. It has long been surmised that it was the great monopolistic industries that most needed codes of fair competition. The railroads have long been under regulation against unfair practices. So also the public utilities. The time has now come when the great industries, with their secret gentlemen's agreements, will be brought into line. For years the steel industry has been under such a secret code, imposed largely by the largest units, such as the United States Steel corporation. The Aluminum Company of America has been able to make the lesser aluminum companies bow to its will. Others might be named.

We shall probably find that in these cases the administration will not abandon its control through the medium of the codes of fair practice. More and more as the recovery plans proceed we shall have need to make changes. This is not a matter of discouragement. It is the evidence that by the process of elimination we are getting to the roots of the problem.

DIFFERENT REPORT ON FASCISM

Statements are so often made testifying to Fascism's great benefits to Italy that it is only fair to note that Hugh Quigley, in Current History, states that Fascism has almost completely nullified the economic and social improvements made in Italy between the years 1910 and 1922. "Figures obtained from official Fascist sources would indicate," he says, "that under Fascism labor is worse paid than in almost any other European country."

Mr. Quigley goes on to say in his article that slum areas have been cleared in order to make room for grandiose conceptions such as the great boulevard running from the Capitol to the Coliseum in Rome or the new Park at Santa Lucia in Naples, but no real provision has been made for re-housing the population displaced. In this respect Fascist history is one of unrelieved indifference and brutality. Commendations of the Fascist regime in Italy have an undermining influence on the principles of democracy. It is well to note that there are other reports being made of the situation of a country under a dictator.

Death of Hal Forrest in Laguna Beach last night marks the passing of one of the old school newspapermen.

Forrest served his "cub" days on some of the larger New York journals which today either have passed out of existence or have been merged with others.

For nearly two score years Forrest had been associated with newspapers. He started as "leg man" on the old New York World, later being ordered into the office and subsequently being taken on as "desk man" on other newspapers in New York and Philadelphia.

His marriage to Marion Munson, well known vaudeville star, temporarily ended his newspaper career and in company with his wife he appeared on the theatrical stage in practically every country in the world.

Retiring from the stage Forrest and his wife came to California about fifteen years ago where Forrest returned to the newspaper game. He was employed on the Los Angeles Times and Long Beach Telegram and later published and edited the Laguna Beach Life. At the time of his death he was free lancing and doing correspondence for several newspapers, including The Register.

Forrest was a tireless worker and even during the last few months while suffering from heart disease he never shirked his duty to his newspapers, being "on call" late at night and in the early morning hours.

His passing will be mourned by newspapermen up and down the Pacific Coast. He ended his career true to the traditions of the newspaper game, with his "pencil in his hand."

ANOTHER REVELATION

Most of us from time to time and some of us most of the time, like to review the events of the World War, the peace with Germany, the Versailles Treaty, and the map-making which was based upon those events. They all have bearing on current events.

The other day, over the British broadcasting network, Lord Riddell who represented the British press at the Paris Peace Conference, told some of the events of that conference which are interesting. Of foremost interest in this revelation, is the statement that it was not President Wilson but Premier Lloyd George who offended Premier Orlando. In fact that the Premier was so offended that he cried and was seen to cry by this press representative who was standing outside of the building and saw him come to the window and abandon himself to tears.

When Lloyd George came out, Lord Riddell accosted him about the cause of Orlando's tears. According to this report Lloyd George said: He was overcome by a speech I made. It was a touching scene. He began to gulp and then got up and walked to the window and regularly broke down. Wilson was very touched. He was overcome by a speech I made. It was might think that Lloyd George had been "pulling the leg" of the enquiring reporter were it not that we all know that truth is stranger than fiction.

Where Rule Is Personal

San Francisco Chronicle
American commentators on the war Abdul Aziz ibn Saud has been waging so victoriously against his neighbor the Imam Yahya of the Yemen assume that the outcome will be a permanent unification of the greater part of Arabia. They forget that government in Arabia is purely personal and with its intrigue and fickle loyalties is never stronger than the man at the head.

At the moment ibn Saud holds under his sway more of Arabia than has been ruled by any Arabian prince since the first centuries after Mohammed and if he takes the Yemen will have also the richest part of the peninsula. He is an able man without doubt but who knows what will follow when he is gone. If the usual course of Arabian history ensues the independent emirates he has conquered and united in Saudi Arabia will sooner or later fall away and resume their individual existences under their own chiefs.

The desert keeps Arabia scattered, and only a strong hand can hold it together. Whenever a strong man or a strong family has succeeded in uniting two or more provinces it has never been for any great length of time. The State does not exist in Arabia. The ruler is the State and it dies with him.

Depression Produced Increase In Poetry

San Bernardino Sun
A popular monthly magazine reports that the economic depression has brought an astonishing crop of unsolicited poems to its editorial offices. During the first four months of 1934 poems were submitted for publication at the rate of 396 a day. The increase began in 1930 and hit a peak in 1932. After that the amount of verse fell off slightly, but continued to maintain a level almost 25 per cent higher than the pre-depression volume. This particular magazine uses only about 75 poems a year, so that the estimated 54,000 poems will leave a large surplus.

Why should the depression so increase the poetry output? Perhaps it hasn't. It has, on a guess, only increased the number of verse-writers who have tried to sell their output. In good times many individuals write poetry for personal pleasure. They put their verses away in desk drawers or send them to friends. In hard times the poems are taken out, polished up and sent to magazine publishers in the hope they may be printed and paid for.

That may not be the whole explanation. There may really be more poem-writing going on, a development of the new leisure.

Volunteer

San Diego Union
In the rioting at Minneapolis, one man was killed—a volunteer policeman. This volunteer policeman was, it was discovered, also vice president of one of the companies involved in the strike. We may admire his courage in getting into the arena to battle for his cause, but we cannot admire the system which permitted it. Was a police badge pinned on any of the strikers—who, according to their lights, were also battling for a cause? A policeman ought to be neutral, representing only the public. Can the boss, or the boss's employee, be neutral?

When battling partisans are given police authority, law and order pass out of the picture.

When The Moon Comes Over The Mountain

More Truth Than Poetry

By James J. Montague

THE DREAM PEDDLER

Flying down to Drowsytown,
When the sun is low,
To seal wee weary eyelids down
The little Dream Folks go;
They flutter swiftly homeward then
Without a single sound,
But by and by they come again
To pass the dreams around.

Where they ever find their dream
Puzzling is to me—
Maybe by the singing streams,
Maybe by the sea,
Maybe in some distant star
Shining overhead,
But at twilight there they are
By the trundle-bed.

When the sun is in the sky
To warm the morning air,
Far away the Dream Folks fly,
No one knows just where.
Yet, wherever they may lurk,
Be it far or near,
They'll be busy at their work
When the night is near.

Hurry then to bed at night,
Close your shining eyes,
Shut out every ray of light
Till the sun shall rise,
Keep as quiet as you can,
As every child should do,
And probably some pisky-man
Will bring a dream to you.

Man is fearfully made and noise does dreadful things to his nerves unless he makes it himself.

If a man drinks too much, it's the fault of his home life. If a woman drinks too much, it's because she's ornery.

The English know how to deal with the Orient. They depend on a big fleet instead of big talk.

There are two classes: the ignorant, who don't know what their government is doing, and the learned, who don't know why. Man or nation, the way to insure peace is not to let the other fellow think he can lick you.

So Tugwell likes baseball. Well, it must be fun to hear people hawl out the umpire instead of him.

It's our own fault if Japan talks war. She didn't when our fleet was twice the size of hers.

What's the use? The better citizen you are, the more you suffer when your government makes a fool of itself.

AMERICANISM: Taking violent exercise in hope of regaining youth; wondering why so many more die of heart trouble.

How would it do to soak only the rich who aren't doing anything to make the country richer?

The poor are helping to save America. They also serve who only stand the staff.

Mr. Roosevelt needn't worry. He called the New Deal "evolution" and the South is still with him.

THAWTS ON LIFE

I like lots of people in spite of their faults
And I'll end a bum book if I begin it,
But if an egg isn't absolutely perfect
I lose all interest in it.

O mitley bumpy ocean
Whose waves like thunder brake,
I admire and enjoy you more
The more you're like a lake.

Ladies look graceful when they walk
And even when they skip.
But what they need when they try to run
Is less wabble and a little more dip.

When I judge by the way I'm feeling now
I don't think I'll ever get fat,
But when I judge by the shape of my family
I'm not quite so sure of that.

When I feel exter brave and ask for 2 cents
And wonder if I could of got 3,
It seems funny to think some day I'll grow up
I don't think I'll ever get fat,
And have people depending on me.

Thoughts On Modern Life

BY GLENN FRANK

THE NEW DEAL AND THE CODES

I am—as readers of these articles well know by now—sincerely skeptical of the soundness and ultimate workability of a national policy that seeks to reduce production and raise prices.

If—as I think we must sooner or later do—we revive and reverse this two-edged policy, we must do it through a detailed overhauling of the codes. That overhauling, even at this early hour, is, I think, already overdue.

I have been interested in the following clear analysis of the ways in which the codes operate to reduce production and raise prices, as given in an Oxford university press volume on America's Recovery Program.

There are three ways in which production is reduced and prices thereby raised:

(1) Many codes limit the number of hours per week that machinery may be operated.

(2) Some codes prohibit the increase of productive capacity.

(3) Some codes—notably the lumber and timber products code—impose iron-clad production quotas on the members of the industry.

There are six ways in which prices are raised and production thereby reduced:

(1) Most of the codes prohibit sales below cost.

(2) Several codes—notably the electrical manufacturers code—involve an open price plan which obliges all concerns in the industry to file with a central authority their price lists and forbids them to reduce the prices they thus announce without giving notice to their competitors.

(3) Some codes, like the steel code, contain multiple basing point system which effectively prevent any real price competition within the basing point areas.

(4) The retail code provides for a minimum mark-up.

(5) Some codes—notably the oil and coal codes—provide for definite price fixing.

I am singularly unmoved by the wolf cry of revolution raised by the Dr. Wirts. If I were not such a convinced antagonist of all forms of censorship, I should be tempted to feel happy at the permanent silencing of all bogey-mongers. But I should like to see an intelligent and objective political opposition confining itself to a realistic analysis of the ultimate social results of all those devices for reducing production and raising prices. The clarification of public opinion awaits this sort of opposition which, in the long run, will be the highest type of cooperation with the national leadership.

PATIENCE

The list of virtues assigned to teachers and parents always gives patience a prominent place. With all your serving let Patience do her perfect work.

Now I'm not so strong for patience. I would take it for granted in those who serve children as teachers and parents must do. I would be inclined to be impatient with those who were forced to control their tempers and tongues when faced by a childish failure either in work or in conduct.

Mistakes and weaknesses are characteristic in children. If they arrived in this world with all the knowledge and power of the adult there would be no need for us to carry on past their first stages of helplessness, their brief infancy. I suspect that Nature who is ruthless in her economy would wipe us out very quickly. We have a distinct place in her economy and guide and launch the children in the strange world they must master. It is at once our duty and our excuse for living. Why then the strain on our patience?

The experienced teacher, and this includes all parents, knows that children have to be trained to live with other people, to master the experiences of the race, to adjust themselves to life in general. They know, too, that in this process of getting understanding, that children will make mistakes, some trifling enough, some very serious. They should know that their share in all this is that of guide and friend. Where then are they to feel martyred and patient?

If a teacher understands his job he rises above the stage of development where patience is a virtue. Whenever I see the look of resigned patience on the face of a teacher or parent I feel impatient. To my way of thinking they should be above patience and well steeped in understanding.

I am gray with years in the field of child training. I know how children can try the souls of their teachers and their parents. I know what suffering they inflict on those who love them. I know too the soul wearing task of the teacher who day by day must face the frustrating round of schoolroom tasks. But I also know the joy of helping struggling childhood.
